Renters Receive Prop. 13 Rebates

Apartment Owners Want Recognition

By TERRY DAVENPORT

Apartment complex owners who are refunding thousands of dollars to San Mateo County renters and millions throughout the state are upset that they aren't getting much credit.

Ted Dienstfrey, director of research and planning for the California Housing Council, a state association of large apartment complex owners and managers, said he believes Gov. Brown gave up too soon on his voluntary rental rebate program.

Dienstfrey said many council members agreed last summer to go along with Brown's suggestion that apartment owners refund to renters their tax savings from Proposition 13.

Although Brown turned his attention to a rent control bill that eventually died on the state Senate floor and never jumped back on the rent rebate bandwagon, Dienstfrey said most apartment owners are honoring their earlier commitment to refund tax savings.

Apartment owners contacted seemed miffed about the lack of fanfare over their rebates.

Ken Ambrose, vice president of Taube Associates, Inc., of Foster City, said his company is refunding more than $1 million to renters in 6,000 units throughout the Bay Area.

"I'm glad you called," he told a reporter. "I was afraid we were giving a million bucks away without anyone knowing about it."

Like most apartment owners participating in the refund program, Taube Associates froze rents during the second half of 1978 and is giving renters 80 percent of the company's tax savings attributable to Proposition 13.

Owners are refunding the money in different ways. Most take into account the amount of rent each tenant paid since Proposition 13 went into effect July 1.

Taube Associates is extending its rent-free period, using the rebate to pay for a scheduled 7 percent rent increase that otherwise takes effect next month.

Ambrose said, "For most, that means no rent increase until at least June. For some tenants it means no increase until 1980."

The company has 1,026 units in San Mateo County: the Beach Park apartments in Foster City; Calvert and Lauriedale apartments in San Mateo; Clubview apartments in South San Francisco; Dover House apartments in Burlingame; Eaton House and Pinecrest apartments in San Carlos; French Village and Woodmont apartments in Belmont; The Oaks, Caribbean and Redwoods apartments in Redwood City; and Points West and Surfside apartments in Pacifica.

Among the other apartment complex owners giving rebates to San Mateo County renters are:

• Gerson Bakar and Associates of San Francisco — This owner of 7,200 units in California, 4,413 of which are in San Mateo County, is giving tenants 80 percent of the company's tax savings in the form of a deduction from December rent. Bakar owns the 2,983-unit Westlake Associates Country Club apartments in Daly City, the 1,000-unit Woodlake apartments in San Mateo and the 430-unit Crystal Springs apartments in San Bruno. While the company hasn't raised rents since June 1, Vice President Virgil Banning said a rent hike "obviously will be a necessity at some point because prices are going up."

• Lincoln Property Co. of Foster City — Louis Porta, vice president of the property management division, said his company hasn't raised rents since last March and won't do so before next March. Meanwhile, the company plans to refund 80 percent of its tax savings. Lincoln has several thousand apartments in California. Its only complex in this county is The Place apartments in

Sanitation Chiefs Charge TV Hatchet Job

Four men accused in a television documentary on the North San Mateo County Sanitation District aired last Friday of using public funds for their personal benefit have dismissed the program as inaccurate and defamatory.

Robert Bernicchi of Resources, Engineering and Management (REM) of South San Francisco, the principal target of the show, called it "blatant reportorial distortion" and said he is contemplating legal action against KRON-TV of San Francisco.

The half-hour show charged that Bernicchi's engineering firm profited from million-dollar contracts thrown his way in return for his spending of the sanitation district's funds while he served as district manager.

Specifically, the program charged:

• That Bernicchi bought business and personal insurance from one sanitation district director, county Supervisor James Fitzgerald, at the same time Fitzgerald made a motion to give Bernicchi's company the engineering contract for Daly City's sewage treatment plant without considering bids from other firms. Bernicchi has earned more than $1 million from that contract.

• That a former district director, Frank Pacelli, has earned more than $50,000 from the sanitation district since voting in 1972 to allow Bernicchi to function simultaneously as manager and consultant for the district.

• That Bernicchi formed a pollution control equipment company that sold more than $2,000 worth of products to the district that he bought as manager.

• That Robert Eppler, a REM employee, landed that job soon after he was, as a county senior civil engineer, involved in selecting REM for a $80,000 sewer project in the Emerald Lake Hills area.

• That a fire last July in REM's offices, described as arson by a South San Francisco arson investigator, destroyed records that might have been audited.

• That Bernicchi and Pacelli refused to be interviewed to answer those charges.

Bernicchi said Monday he is the innocent victim of a vicious attack that is affecting his business and personal life.

He stressed that his company did no business with the sanitation district while he was employed as manager from 1963 to 1972.

Bernicchi said he took steps to divorce himself from the district when he saw the "handwriting on the wall" that there would be a large sewage plant project for which his company might compete.

Nevertheless, Bernicchi said the directors talked him into remaining as manager at the same time his company began doing work for the district.

As soon as REM landed the contract to do the engineering for the sewage plant, Bernicchi said he resigned his job as manager, remaining only as a consultant.

Bernicchi was particularly upset by the implied charge that he arranged to have a fire burn records in his office last July. The truth is, he said, that none of the company's financial records were damaged and that Environmental Protection

Cost Overruns, Billing Errors

FBI to Look Into Treatment Plant Snarls

By TERRY DAVENPORT

Federal investigators are taking a close look at the South San Francisco firm that recently allegedly overcharged 25,000 customers of the North San Mateo County Sanitation District for sewer service.

A spokesman for the Federal Bureau of Investigation said Friday, "The U.S. Attorney's office has requested the FBI to look into the activities of Resources, Engineering and Management (REM) to determine if a violation of federal law has occurred."

A $9 million difference between REM's original estimate and the current cost of Daly City's secondary treatment plant also has attracted the attention of the state Water Quality Control Board, which ordered an audit of the project to begin early.

The audit, now in progress, normally wouldn't have begun until after the state had finished paying for the plant, according to Curtis Swanson, a state water quality control engineer.

REM received $65,000 to do the planning work for the plant and, in addition, is paid 5.8 percent of the plant's total construction cost.

Swanson said REM has been paid $1.5 million to date and stands to receive more money as a result of change orders on the plant, which he described as "98 percent complete."

REM estimated in February 1974 that the plant would cost $7.2 million. So far, the project has cost $16.24 million.

But the cost overrun on the plant is only one of several problems besetting Sanitation District directors at the moment.

Their primary concern is rectifying 25,000 bills mailed to Sanitation District customers in Daly City, Colma and unincorporated Colma.

The bills, which were prepared by REM, charged about 30 percent more than district directors authorized.

The error was made during the changeover from a fee included on water billings to a charge on property tax bills.

Board Chairman William Schumacher, who estimated the overcharges to be between $300,000 and $400,000, said, "I think the primary responsibility of it lies with the board...It's the board's error. The error was not being informed by our manager as to what they (REM) were doing."

According to Schumacher, it is the mutual desire of the board and REM to sever ties, but Schumacher favors keeping REM on the payroll to brief the new district general manager, when the board hires one.

To terminate REM's services immediately, Schumacher remarked, "would be cutting off a valuable resource of information."

Schumacher added that there is a legal question as to whether REM would have to pay costs estimated as high as $50,000 to straighten out the bills. "All REM did was what (district general manager) Dave Gehre told them to do," he said.

The district pays $500 a month plus $12 to $35 per hour for consulting services by REM.

Although another sanitation district director, James Fitzgerald, blamed REM for neglecting to tell the board about its new method of calculating the bills, REM also is being paid to help straighten out the overbilling problem.

The board authorized Richard Dwyer, an outside accountant, along with "any organization he wishes to call upon for resources" to study different methods of rectifying the erroneous charges.

Dwyer said Friday he has met with Robert Eppler of REM three times and has a fourth meeting scheduled.

Dwyer estimated he has himself spent 20 to 30 hours this week studying the overbilling but said he won't have any recommendations for solving it by Monday and will ask the board for more time.

The district pays Dwyer $500 plus $10 to $40 per hour for his services.

Other developments:

• Gehre, the district general manager who submitted his resignation after the overbilling problem came to light, said his resignation doesn't take effect until February and that he will be "in and out of the office" until then.

• The state has agreed to pay $97,500 to correct the sewage treatment plant's noise problem, probably within a couple of months, but won't pay to fix the plant's odor problem until the district does a thorough evaluation to track down the reasons for the smell. Schumacher said it could be six to eight months before the odor problem is corrected.

• The district received $340,000 more than it expected from property taxes, which will help lessen the effects of the bungled bills.

Schumacher defended the district by saying, "The product the plant turns out — the water that is treated — is a real super product that far exceeds all regulations and requirements. It is better than some people's drinking water."

Ironically, regulations governing sewage treatment plants on the Coastside were softened in 1977, erasing the need for some secondary treatment plants such as Daly City is building.

New Sewer Bills Will Be Awhile

Unraveling the overbilling problem in the North San Mateo County Sanitation District will take at least a month, directors learned Monday.

Richard Dwyer, an accountant hired to come up with a plan for correcting the thousands of bills, said information he received in the past week about the problem was "guesswork."

Dwyer said he wasn't sure yet whether customers were overcharged 30 percent, the total they were overcharged or how many bills are affected.

District officials have estimated 25,000 users were overcharged as much as $400,000.

Dwyer won approval from the directors to continue investigating the problem. He said he is unable to determine how long it will take to arrive at a solution, but that refiguring bills would take at least three weeks.

That was small solace to a group of angry citizens.

Ralph Damon, a Broadmoor resident, said he knew one person who was charged a sewer fee for a vacant lot without a sewer connection and another who was billed $858.

Conrad Pavellas suggested using meter reading books and data available from the California Water Service and San Francisco Water

Agency auditors are going through them this week.

Bernicchi said the arson investigator who handled the case, Gil Castro, told him there was no evidence proving that the fire was arson.

Although Castro said Monday that the fire was, in his opinion, arson, Bernicchi said he hired a private arson investigator who concluded that the fire was accidentally caused by two REM employees working late on the night of the fire.

Bernicchi said he hasn't wanted to make that report public but believed he had to now.

Bernicchi had no immediate reply to the charge that his Virotrol company profited from the sale of pollution control devices to the district. He said he will reply to that charge, and others, in a detailed rebuttal later this week.

Supervisor Fitzgerald said the only way he personally profited from the sanitation district was the $50 per meeting he received for attending board sessions.

"I thought I was treated unfairly," he remarked, noting that he had fully explained his lack of involvement in his son's insurance company in the past.

Fitzgerald denied trading any favors for votes and emphasized that the directors' decision to hire Bernicchi's company was a wise one, since "the plant has become a model in the state of California."

His relationship with Bernicchi, Fitzgerald said, "is strictly a business relationship."

Asked why no other bids were considered when the board awarded Bernicchi the sewage plant contract, Fitzgerald said, "I myself felt that Bernicchi was the best there was."

He added that nothing had developed to change that opinion although there have been recent odor and noise problems at the plant.

Fitzgerald and Bernicchi both detailed Bernicchi's long experience in the field of sewage treatment.

Among other things, he served as chairman of the California Water Pollution Control Association in 1973 and chairman of the San Mateo County Water Quality Advisory Committee from 1963 to 1975.

Pacelli said he was interviewed several times by the television station but that the reporter chose, instead, to air film showing him running away from — and allegedly punching — a cameraman.

Pacelli said he was dismayed when the TV reporter pulled up in an unmarked car and began chasing him down the street. "I didn't have time to talk. I was late for a meeting," he explained.

He denied hitting the cameraman.

Pacelli said he never did business with the sanitation district while he served as a director, but as soon as he stepped down in 1972, "I went after the business. Who else do you do business with if not with friends?"

The sanitation district bought office supplies from Pacelli's company, Serramonte Stationers, and also hired him and REM to do a report on computerizing sewage bills.

Pacelli said the TV station neglected to point out that he had difficulty completing the computer report on time because he suffered a heart attack.

"I didn't make anything off the report. I was looking down the road. I thought computers would be the business of the future," he said.

Pacelli stressed he was off the Board of Directors at the time Bernicchi landed the sewage plant contract.

Eppler of REM said he was "disappointed that a responsible journalist would take the approach used on Friday night's presentation."

He said he joined REM after evaluating the "bleak short-term prospects for advancement in county government in the light of Proposition 13."

When he worked for the county, Eppler said he was involved only in the selection of REM as consultant for a preliminary "step-one" agreement.

D.C. Ponders Funds

Deciding how to spend Daly City's $791,000 in 1979-80 Housing and Community Development Act funds won't be easy, the City Council learned Monday night, when staff members and community groups presented ideas for spending the money, nearly $2 million.

Mayor William Schumacher agonized aloud about the tough task that lies ahead for the council: choosing which projects will receive federal funds.

The council won't have to decide for at least a month. In the meantime, a citizens' committee and the Planning Commission will review the proposals and make recommendations to the council.

Commenting on the proposals, citizen Harold Calder termed the city's plans to continue funding a large community center "economic madness." He asked the council to speed up work on Lincoln Park, saying, "Don't give us any more bull," and urged them to use some of the schools that the Jefferson Elementary School District is closing.

The HCDA proposals are scheduled for discussion at joint meetings of the General Plan Citizens Advisory Committee and Planning Commission on Jan. 11 and 18.

San Bruno, whose 872 renters will receive a total of $54,600 in rebate checks.

• R.W. Zukin Corp. of Menlo Park — This company is giving back 100 percent of its tax savings to tenants, rebating half of the amount in the form of checks this month and the rest in April, according to Rick Alhona, president. R.W. Zukin owns 4,000 units in San Mateo and Santa Clara counties.

• Baywood Apartments of Foster City — Tenants in complexes owned by this company haven't had their rents raised since July 1, 1978 and aren't scheduled to have them increased during 1979. The company is refunding all of its tax savings from Proposition 13, with the exception of costs due to increased municipal fees. Checks should be issued by Christmas. Baywood owns 1,766 units in Foster City (the Sand Cove, Harbor Cove, Shadow Cove and Beach Cove apartments), 288 units in San Mateo and 154 units outside of this county.

One apartment complex that has decided not to give rebates is the 920-unit Crown Colony apartments of Daly City. A spokesman for the parent company, L & S Associates of Fountain Valley, Calif., said the company has decided to freeze rents at least through mid-1979 instead of granting rebates.

Bills

Department to correct the bills.

David Cafferata of Daly City said he had discovered he was charged $40 instead of $24 on his sewer bill.

The error in calculating district sewer charges was made during a transition from including the fee on water bills to posting it on property tax bills.

Robert Bernicchi of Resources, Engineering and Management of South San Francisco, the company hired to calculate the bills, explained after the meeting Monday the circumstances leading to the overbilling problem.

Bernicchi said he has become used to assuming responsibilities for the North San Mateo, Bayshore and Granada sanitation districts without day-to-day communication.

"Whenever the directors need anything, they say, 'Let Bob do it,'" he explained.

It was midway through figuring the bills, Bernicchi said, that his company discovered the 59 cents per 100 cubic feet charge would not raise the $1.5 million necessary to operate the plant.

Since the bills were due at the county controller's office two days later, to be included on property tax bills, Bernicchi said his company changed the charge, with Manager David Gehre's approval, to 88 cents per 100 cubic feet.

District directors have since criticized Gehre and Bernicchi for failing to consult them before increasing the charge. Gehre has resigned as manager, effective next February.

But Bernicchi said, "I feel if it wasn't for us, there would be no sewer service charges and there would be no funds to operate the district."

Dwyer promised to report to the directors Dec. 18 on his progress in figuring out a satisfactory way to correct all the sewer bills.

Dwyer said one of his immediate goals is to determine, through a random sampling of bills, whether the error on the bills is consistent. If not, he said, "We are talking about calculating manually 22,000 or 25,000 bills."

Estimates of the cost of re-figuring all the bills range as high as $50,000.

Council Overrides Protest, OKs 141 Units

Over the vehement objections of nearby residents, South San Francisco's City Council Wednesday approved construction of 141 condominiums in the Sunshine Gardens area.

After four hours of public comment and debate, the council gave approval but required that more parking space be provided.

The total number of units on the site at Grand and Willow avenues will be 221. Fifty units already are on the site and 30 more are under construction, according to City Planner Bill Costanzo.

Developer Maurice Brosnan had proposed that the project would total 232 condominiums. However, he revealed at the council meeting that an engineer had miscalculated the size of the area and that the density would be less.

Before the vote was taken, a parade of speakers voiced strong objections to the project. The Sunshine Gardens residents said the project was too dense, traffic would be increased too much and parking was insufficient.

Those residents, who at one point numbered about 150, left the meeting disappointed. As the tired group filed out, some talked of voting out the present council at the next election.

Mayor William Borba was the only one to disapprove of the project, saying its density was too high.

Before he cast the dissenting vote, Borba was criticized by one resident for being "wishy-washy."

The majority of the council found that the project merited approval if parking spaces were increased.

Councilman Terry Mirri said there is prejudice against people who live in condominiums. "We have to come to grips with it now," said Mirri, who noted that for many, condominiums are their only chance to own a home.

Mirri asked the council to consider the Stonegate condominiums: "It has not turned into a ghetto."

Councilwoman Roberta Teglia said she believes the project is the best one possible for that site.

"It will not be a blight," she said, adding that when the condominiums are finished she believes the project become part of the neighborhood.

Councilman Ron Acosta said that even though more traffic may be generated, the council must consider that "people have a right to live."

The only way the city can generate more revenue is to encourage development, he said.

Mayor Borba then made a motion that the plan be re-evaluated by the planning staff in view of residents' concerns.

After some discussion on the motion, resident Julius Renke stood up and shouted: "What a wishy-washy mayor." He told the council it should let residents and developers know that night what the decision will be.

"I just wish that you guys would take a stand on something in this city," he said.

Borba explained he was only trying to get more parking for the project, and that is why he sought a delay.

The issue was brought to the council after the Citizens Action League appealed the recent Planning Commission approval.

The project originally called for development to take place in 20 phases. The price of the homes was estimated to be about $55,000.

However, the developer said that because the project will have fewer units than planned, prices will be higher.

Most of the speakers who addressed the council said they did not want the project killed, but the density reduced.

"People have invested their life savings in Sunshine Gardens," said Gene Rossini, CAL chairman in Sunshine Gardens.

Citizens Quiz Candidates

Seven candidates for the Laguna Salada School District Board of Trustees were quizzed Tuesday by a panel of community members.

An opening exists on the five-member board because Trustee John Plato has resigned to take a job on the East Coast.

The four remaining trustees will interview the candidates Dec. 14 and make their selection at that public meeting. The trustees have decided against holding a special election.

About 20 persons attended Tuesday's meeting, including the four trustees. The meeting was designed as an opportunity for persons other than the trustees to ask the candidates their opinions on local educational issues.

The candidates were asked several questions about closing schools in the district and about parental involvement in the district.

All of the applicants said parents should have more say in school policies, although several of them mentioned that frequently parents are too busy to get more involved.

On the issue of closing schools, again, the responses were very similar.

Michael Mosness, an Oceana High School teacher, said the cost of busing students to another school must be considered when closing a neighborhood school.

"It might be a lot cheaper to keep it open," he said.

He stressed that the Laguna Salada district must work on drawing youngsters who are attending private schools back to the public school system.

"Try and offer them a better education," he said, noting that the Vallemar Structured School has drawn some of those students back into public schools.

Vallemar Structured School opened this year with a back-to-basics approach to education.

Judy Johnson, a Pacifica homemaker who has been active in school and civic activities, said that when the board looks at closing schools because of declining enrollment it also should look at opening up another structured school.

She said interest in the no-frills approach to education may be so great that a school could operate in the north and south ends of Pacifica.

"But eventually, we will close schools," she said.

As for busing those dislocated students, she said the board might consider that it is not its responsibility to provide transportation for students in view of the belt-tightening since the passage of Proposition 13.

Another candidate, Paul Anderson, who is a data processing manager, said the board must realize that "school closings are more than an economic evil."

He said the closing of schools also is a neighborhood issue because students are taken "further away from their home influence."

"It's probably the most difficult decision the school board will make," he said of the task facing trustees next year.

The recommendation of Ruth-Ann Hijazi, who is an auditor for the General Accounting Office, was that the district offer parents more alternative types of education.

"Parents are really interested," she said, in different approaches to education. They also are concerned that district test scores keep dropping, she added.

William Grant, a full-time psychology student and former post office employee, said he believes enrollment will level off.

Student Expelled In Knife Incident

Trustees of the Jefferson Union High School District have expelled a 16-year-old student from Westmoor High School in Daly City because he reportedly brandished a knife in a school hallway in early November.

He has been expelled for the remainder of the 1978-79 school year but may apply to the board for readmission to school in the fall of 1979.

Superintendent Floyd Gonella explained, "We have a general policy in our discipline manual which states that any individual who carries or brandishes a weapon is subject to expulsion."

Creditors Descend on Club

By VERA GRAHAM

A creditors' hearing was conducted Friday before the U. S. Bankruptcy Court in San Francisco involving 40 separate claims filed so far against the Sundown Tennis Club of San Mateo.

The tennis club corporation filed a petition for bankruptcy on Oct. 17 and the proceedings were finalized Nov. 1.

Federal Judge Lloyd King appointed John M. England of 55 New Montgomery St., San Francisco, as trustee for the corporation Friday. He will determine remaining assets of the firm and with court approval make disbursements to the extent possible to claimants.

A number of other creditors are expected to file action against the tennis club firm shortly, court officials said.

Appearing in court Friday with Donald Creech, an airline pilot and former president of the Sundown Tennis Club, was his attorney, Henry Cohen of Burlingame, according to the court. The attorney has declined any comment on the case. Those who have had claims on file can seek relief through England 60 days from Dec. 8. After that time, other creditors have six months to take action.

The club opened about a year ago. At the height of its operations, it is reported to have had about 180 members.

Many of them were airline pilots also. They initially invested $700 to $750 for a lifetime membership to join the club and paid $35 a month in fees for a single card and $45 a month for a family membership.

Some of the members are reported also saying they intend to seek recourse against the corporation.

The Sundown Tennis Club originally leased about 6.27 acres from the California Jockey Club at 2222 S. Delaware St. in San Mateo.

An initial building permit was issued for $525,000 in April, followed by an additional permit for $10,000 in August, 1977.

The tennis club, now said to be valued at $800,000, opened about a year ago.

However, it ran into fiscal problems early in its operations. By Sept. 29, the California Jockey Club, owner of the leased property, began foreclosure proceedings in Superior Court. The tennis club by then owed the Jockey Club $80,000 in back rent.

In addition, a second loan had been obtained for about $350,000 from the Security Pacific Bank, plus a third for $50,000 from a private party.

The Small Business Administration (SBA) guaranteed 90 percent of the bank loan.

Frank Ingersoll, attorney for the California Jockey Club, today said that the SBA had paid up outstanding obligations and taken over the lease. It is now negotiating with another prospective tenant to reopen the tennis club.

Ingersoll commented, "We, of course, would have to approve a sublease and would not unreasonably withhold our approval."

John Reed, tennis pro at the San Mateo Elks Club said that there is a great need for such a tennis club in this area. Others in the county have been reasonably successful and some very successful, according to Reed.

He noted that the Sundown is a good location for a tennis club. He added, "It would be well to build it out to include racketball, outdoor tennis courts, a clubhouse with amenities, such things as a Jacuzzi, a bar, snack bar and lounge area for socialization."

Reed commented, "It's my understanding some people stopped taking out memberships when they heard there might be some financial difficulties."

AND AWAY WE GO!

This is the scene during the afternoon rush hour at the Bay Area Rapid Transit District station in Daly City, which Traffic Engineer Keith Dellaway calls the city's "worst traffic problem." Daly City has applied for a $350,000 grant to form an intergovernmental council that would develop a plan to relieve congestion around the BART station, including what Dellaway calls "kiss and ride" areas, transfer facilities between buses and BART trains, and passageways for bicyclists and walkers. Daly City had been recommended for this grant by the Metropolitan Transportation Commission. The California Department of Transportation is reviewing the application.

Help Wanted

The following agencies have requested assistance from the Volunteer Bureau/Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County.

SAN MATEO LIBRARY needs a person with clerical skills and flexibility to handle different types of jobs. Also someone with artistic abilities and experience to work on flyers and posters and mounting pictures.

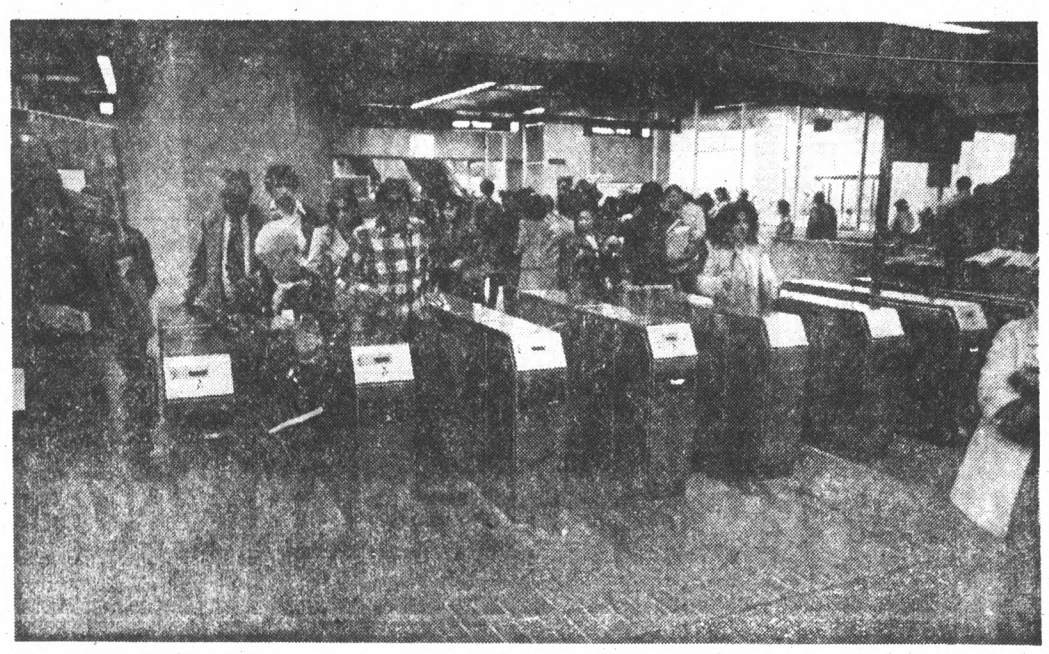

THE VOLUNTEER BUREAU needs a person who will type and provide general help at the Burlingame office Tuesdays and Thursdays. Interest in the community is helpful.

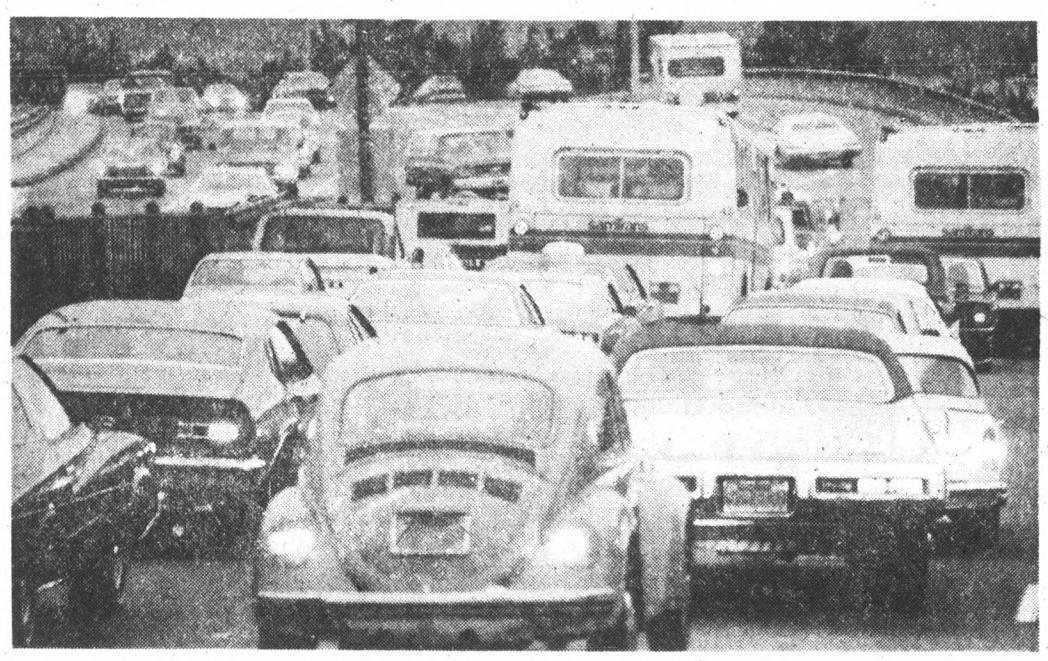

THE SUICIDE PREVENTION AND CRISIS CENTER will begin interviews in December for people to attend the next extensive training to be offered evenings and weekends during January and February.

A TYPIST/ASSISTANT EDITOR is needed to assist in all phases of publication of a once every two month newsletter for the Retired Senior Volunteer Program on a flexible schedule.

THE 1978 SAN MATEO CHRISTMAS BUREAU will need helpers to wrap and pack at the San Mateo Center between Dec. 15 and 23.

For more details about these and other opportunities contact the Volunteer Bureau at the main office in Burlingame at 342-0801. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and until 7 on Wednesdays for employed volunteers. A project of the Assistance League of San Mateo County, The Bureau shares in the United Way of the Bay Area and is funded in part by the County of San Mateo.t.

That I may know Him and the power of His Resurrection—

"Would that all who have not chosen Christ might realize that He has something vastly better to offer them than they are seeking for themselves. Man is doing the greatest injury and injustice to his own soul when he thinks and acts contrary to the will of God. No real joy can be found in the path forbidden by Him who knows what is best and who plans for the good of His creatures. The path of transgression is the path of misery and destruction." — Steps to Christ, page 46.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAMS

Park Dedicated

A new park and playground, developed on land donated by the County's Housing Authority, was dedicated by the city of Daly City last Saturday.

Housing Authority Director Glenn Weman said a parcel just under five acres, adjacent to the Midway school at Midway Drive and Schwerin Street, has been transferred in perpetuity for recreation for the people of the Old Bayshore city community in the immediate area.

"This was the last open space left in the area and we were pleased to make it available to the surrounding community for recreation uses," Weman said.

Daly City has used HUD funds to develop a ball diamond, tennis courts, and an equipped playground; a jogging track around the park area is planned.

The area is the site of an old Navy housing project called Midway Village which has been torn down and replaced with 436 units of town houses, Weman said.

New Family Planning Clinic in SSF

Family Planning Associates has opened a clinic at 306 Spruce St., Room 101, South San Francisco, in the former Kaiser Hospital Clinic building.

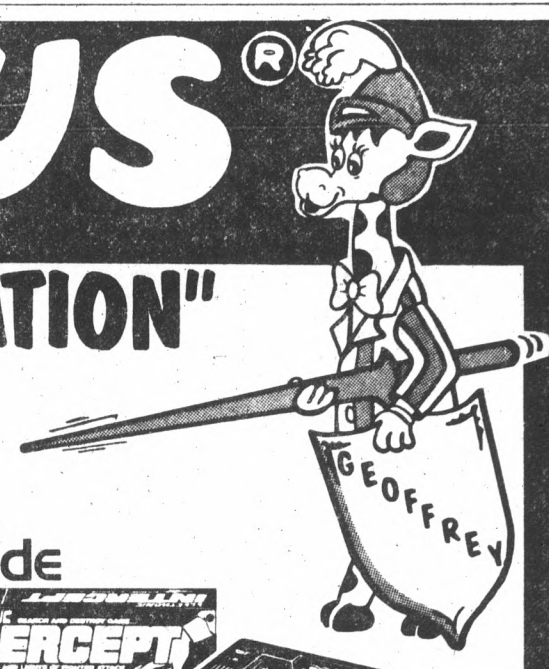

The clinic offers a full staff of specialists in gynecology, obstetrics and family planning, a spokesman said. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at noon to 8 p.m. Tuesday.

No appointments are necessary. Further information may be obtained by calling 583-9858 or 583-9859.

A SPECIAL LIMITED OFFER FROM THE TIMES

The $3.25 monthly, home-delivery rate to The Times was established on June 1, 1974. Since that time, the costs of producing and delivering a newspaper have increased tremendously.

FOR EXAMPLE:

- ✓ during the past 4½ years, a ton of newsprint has risen from $213.50 to $320.00, an increase of 50%. On February 1, 1979, it will be increased another $25.00 which will place it 62% above the June 1, 1974, level.
- ✓ During 1979, wages and salaries will be approximately 50% above the 1974 level.

MANY OTHER EXPENSES HAVE INCREASED SIMILARLY!

All of the increased expenses have necessitated a subscription rate increase, which was announced on November 30, 1978. The monthly home delivery rate for The Times is now $3.75 per month, still less than 15 cents per issue.

During the month of December, 1978, however, we are extending a Special Annual Home-delivery Offer of $39.00,* a savings of $6.00 for the year.

In order to take advantage of this special offer, simply fill out this coupon and mail it, along with your check for $39.00, to: The Times Circulation Dept., P.O. Box 5400, San Mateo, CA. 94402.

Hurry, though! Offer expires December 31, 1978.

*subscription extension for vacation credit and refunds for the difference between the $39.00 paid and the used portion of the annual subscription at $3.75 per month, are part of this special annual subscription offer.

The Indian

By STEVE McBEE and LINDA LEE

In the last issue we talked about the Amateur Night, but we didn't tell you who the winners were. First place was a tie between two of our best singers, Terri Sandino, who sang a medley of "Grease" songs; and Theresa Lopez, who sang a medley of Donna Summers hits.

Second place was given to the Mechanical Puppets, composed of three great dancers, Robert Thompson, Willie Reagan and Glenn Grant.

Third place was given to the Mystic Touch, a trio who sang to the hit "Olivia." The singers were Barris Mitchell, Billy Kennebrew and Randy Bibb.

But we can't forget the expertise of the judges. They were students Alex Hong and Cathy Ryan; and husband and wife teams, Mr. and Mrs. Clemens and Mr. and Mrs. McLean.

Considering the performers had only one day to rehearse their acts, their performances were great. We would like to thank the class of '81 for making it possible.

Congratulations to Jana Kast, our new Student of the Month. This honor was bestowed upon Jana for her many extra-curricular activities. She is senior class president, the student representative to the District Planning Council, a former cheerleader, active in student government and one of the writers for this column.

Primarily through all of her efforts, our Homecoming was a rousing success.

She also has been taking academic courses and has been on the honor roll all three years. In addition to the time she has given the school, she also works part-time at the Defense Logistics Agency in San Bruno.

Jana plans to continue her fine academic achievement and then move on to college where she plans to major in public administration.

As you know, open campus has been a main topic of discussion in the JUHSD. The Student Advisory Board, along with the student body presidents and Dr. Panagoulias, worked very hard to get an open-campus on a trial basis. The Student Advisory Board agreed to make an evaluation and present it to the school board after this trial. Due to the strike, the advisory board was unable to make a complete evaluation in such short time, and so asked for an extension. Tuesday night, after many presentations of the pros and cons to open campus, the board granted this extension until Jan. 16. Therefore, students of JUHSD, beware that open campus is still on trial. Please use it wisely.

In sports:

Rick Cairo, a sophomore, qualified for the Central Coast Section in cross-country. First, he won the gold medal in the frosh-soph race at the NPL finals, then took second in the Regionals. He took a time for 16:41 over a rough three-mile course. Congratulations to Jeff's outstanding runner.

While the football season ends and basketball begins, the Indians look to have an extremely promising season. With Daryll Jackson as guard and Ernie Dupree as forward, they'll be awful hard to stop.

We would like to commend the Jefferson spectators at the Terra Nova-Jefferson football game for their fine conduct. Even in a very disappointing situation one and all retained their composure and showed what fine upstanding students Jefferson truly has. And special thanks is given to all the faithful parents and alumni who rooted on the team throughout the season.

The crowds are gone, the cheerleaders have moved on, and the pain of losing the championship game has faded. What remains are the memories of one of the best football teams Jefferson has ever had. Rated last by the other league coaches, the team came close enough to the title to make sure no one underestimates them again for quite a while.

One reason for the respect earned was the success of the team, 5-2, in league play. The team abounded with great talent. A powerful line including Reginald Camp, Clay Younger and Anthony White, allowed leading rushers Richard Rodgers and Doug Cheatum to use their abilities to the fullest. Special notice also should be taken of Nolan Smith for his fine talent and leadership both on and off the field.

Another reason was because of the team's spirit and attitude. The Indians showed the courage and integrity necessary to break through the stigma of being the laughing stock of the league, with no championship since 1924, 54 years, and some losing streaks to rival schools for 20 years.

Great credit for this courage is given to Coach Jack Burgett. His faith and dedication inspired his players. His expertise in coaching — which at times made one yearn for the easy life of boot camp — made them winners. His efforts have earned him the love and respect of every player and the thanks of the entire school. Now that all the hoopla is over, the pride and achievement of this season will aid us all in any future tasks including next year's bid for the championship.

Operation Santa Claus is just about over and once again all the classes did a great job at collecting canned foods. The cans are given to the recreation department for the needy families of Daly City. The school has an inter-class competition to see who can collect the most cans. The majority were collected by students going door-to-door singing Christmas carols, but some were contributed by the students. Besides doing something good for the community, they all had a great time doing it.

The Jefferson High School Boosters Club is an active group of parents who support the athletic teams at our school. But this year, the group is too small and the club is looking for parents with time to donate and help raise money for the sports programs. If any parent is interested please contact Mary White, 992-2171. The help will be appreciated.

Student body officers and their advisors and Superintendent Floyd Gonella met and discussed various subjects pertaining to school activities at Terra Nova Nov. 7. The officers had the opportunity to become acquainted with each other in the relaxed and pleasant atmosphere. Many subjects were covered, and Dr. Gonella and the advisors plan to have another meeting Feb. 8, with possibly a larger group. As a whole, the meeting was informative and interesting.

The Latin Heritage Club will put on its annual Christmas Posada at Jeff Thursday. First, there will be a delicious dinner consisting of Latin dishes, then at 6 p.m. the Latin Heritage will present princesses representing each Latin country, and the queen of the Posada, Debbie Jolivette. From 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. the Mariachis will perform. After that will be a disco, with disc jockey Marcos Gutierrez. Come join and celebrate this festive occasion.

Ramblings

By STEVE KAUFMAN

There are only two days to go until the annual two-week Christmas break — a time of year which many students as well as faculty and administration look forward to for obvious reasons. I would like to take this opportunity to wish everyone a very happy holiday season and my best wishes for a happy and healthy New Year.

Although the annual Junior Prom-Senior Ball is months away, preparations have begun already. A group of junior and senior students spent the morning of Dec. 5 visiting various hotels to select an appropriate site for this event. Although the spot has not officially been selected, several places are being considered. Among those who went were Kris Tong, Marisa Matteucci, Rachelle Fernandez, and Sue Nessier. Also accompanying the group were advisors George Simon, Rosemary Henson, and Dom Polillo.

Congratulations are in order to Kris. She won the Student of the Month for December, awarded by the Daly City Exchange Club. Kris will attend a luncheon at Val's Restaurant and will receive a Certificate of Award for her achievement. Kris is vice president of the student body and is an active member of the various prom committees. Nice work.

The Journalism Department once again turned out another well-made issue of the school paper, the "Rampage." This little newspaper has changed in both make-up and staff over the years, but has always kept its high quality, serving the school as both a news source as well as a place where students and faculty can air their opinions. Under the assistance of Advisor Don Martin, this year's staff is: Editor, Buzz Locke; sports editor, Clark Bloom; managing editor, Neil Nolan; photo editor, Jerry Zarate; reporters, Sabrina Adams, Adams, Vicky Bagatelos, Gary Burghello, Yvonne Castro, Sharon Chiechi, Karen Darby, Mariene Ferrer, Angela Gonzalez, George Hall, Diane Hart, Susan Hendry, Connie Hesler, Mark Jovick, Paul Jovick, Jean Lipnick, Lily Matias, Marve Milton, Sarah Murray, Raul Perea, Rachael Petty, Manessa Pinkston, Bill Powers, Emile Prevost and Doug Williams. Buddy Price is also a photographer.

Last evening, those students who participated in fall athletics received their awards in the school cafeteria at the Boy's Block W spaghetti dinner. This event is twice per year to honor fall and spring athletes. Six days earlier, the girl athletes had their athletic awards dessert in the cafeteria also. Congratulations to all who won awards.

Westmoor's chapter of the California Scholarship Federation recently took a trip to Stanford University as its yearly college visit. The purpose of the trip was to familiarize students with various local colleges. This makes it easier for individual students to decide where they would like to go to college. Under advisor Jennie Gates, returning to Westmoor after a 15-month sabbatical, this group of scholars must meet several course and grade requirements to be admitted to the group. Hope all who went on the group had a good time.

Congratulations to one of Westmoor's math teachers, Ben Snyder. His Thanksgiving weekend was highlighted when his daughter got married. Hope all went well and I'm sure that you're anxiously awaiting the arrival of your grandchildren.

Today, Westmoor will be host to a rather unique team of actors — the Oregon Shakespearian Theatre Actors. They are coming to the school to set up various workshops based on the works of Shakespeare and other playwrights. It is all part of their fall Actor Visit Program, now in its eighth year. The group is funded in part by a grant from the Mobil Foundation, Inc. Hope all those involved in drama at Westmoor learn a lot.

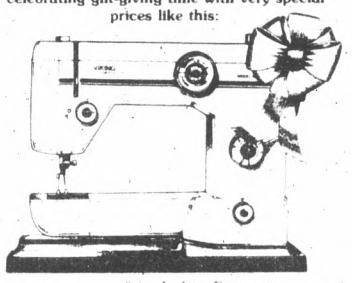

After a few technical difficulties, Westmoor's own radio station, KRAM, finally is underway and once again fully operational. Paul Grosshans, president of the station, plans to install some outdoor speakers so music can be heard in the courtyard and cafeteria. He also hopes to put on a dance some time during the school year, possibly to join up forces with the school yearbook class, and co-sponsor a dance in February. Paul has been working very hard to iron out any tiny details which may hinder the station's performance. Keep up the good work.

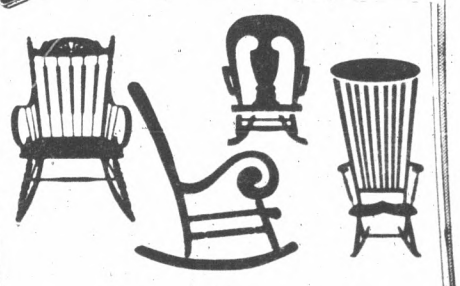

Although it's a bit in advance, keep the date of Jan. 20 tucked away in your minds. This is the date of the "Close-Up" garage sale. This group of ambitious students is trying to defray the cost of its trip to Washington D.C. by having various fund-raising projects throughout the year. The location of the sale is not known, but students are starting to collect old items to sell. Best of luck.

SPORTS — Congratulations to four of Westmoor's varsity football players, who made the first team offense. They include Tony Limutau, Bob Johnson, Don Piiwaa and Emile Prevost. Quarterback Tony missed the Back of the Year award by a hairbreadth but certainly had an outstanding year, totalling 2,627 yards gained this season. Best of luck for next season.

Congratulations to Westmoor's varsity basketball team, which beat Galileo, 78-73. Top players include Sheldon Scott, who scored 21 points in the game. Drerrck Johnon, a transfer student from Wilson, accounted for 28 points. Take it all the way

Earthquake Warning

By JANET PARKER

Confusion over public liability laws may actually be discouraging local governments from eliminating public earthquake hazards that threaten lives.

Cities and counties have been reluctant to "get involved" in earthquake studies, resulting in greater risks to public safety.

That was the essential warning of a $125,000 Association of Bay Area Governments study aired publicly for the first time Friday at an all-day conference in San Francisco.

More than 250 Bay Area city and county officials — including many from San Mateo County — gathered to find out if it's the best policy to identify public buildings subject to earthquake damage.

They left with a plea for the state legislature to straighten out those liability laws and make it easier for governments in seismic hazard areas to develop and implement plans to alleviate hazards.

"A lot of governments feel the more they know, the more liable they are so, 'Let's just not try and find out,'" said Terry Margerum, ABAG Project Director.

The effect, he said, is that laws designed to promote public safety "may actually discourage local governments from serious efforts to reduce earthquake hazards.

In other words, if a city conducts a study and finds out its city hall parapets are likely to fall in an earthquake, it could be held responsible for injuries if those parapets aren't reinforced and they do indeed fall. If no study is conducted and the city isn't aware of the potential danger, it might well escape liability under current laws.

"In 1906 after the catastrophic San Francisco quake, it probably wouldn't have occurred to anybody to sue the city," Margerum said. "People rush off to court at the drop of a hat these days."

The ABAG study — which gathered together some of the leading experts in the nation on civil laws — surveyed 88 earthquake-prone cities and counties and 500 public officials across the country.

Some 96 percent of the respondents felt that the liability rules are "extremely unpredictable."

Confusion seems to be the common thread when city attorneys, building inspectors and city engineers study the ever increasing number of court cases involving municipal liability.

For example, explained Professor Arnold Meltsner of University of California at Berkeley, a resident walking on a public sidewalk could sue and possibly win if a branch from a tree on private property falls and hits him.

"Your government could be held liable because of the dangerous conditions of private property where it makes public property dangerous," Margerum said in explaining the complexity of the laws.

The increasing number of lawsuits alone should indicate that local officials need to take the issue of liability more seriously, said Meltsner, chairman of the committee that put the study together.

Several years ago in Long Beach, he explained, a woman stepped in a hole and tripped over a pipe on private property. The city was named in the suit only because it owned adjacent property.

A significant problem for cities, the experts agreed, is that the government agency is often the only defendant to collect from after the judgment is rendered.

"We are the only ones around with enough money to pay for the damages," said Los Angeles City Attorney John Larsen. That's why, Margerum noted, cities and counties are usually included in suits against private property.

According to the final study, legislation should be immediately enacted clarifying the potential liabilities of local government concerning earthquakes.

It should require the state to notify local governments within a certain time if they are in a seismic risk area. Until that time, local governments would be immune from any liability.

After that notification, governments in hazardous areas would retain immunity from damages if they inspect all publicly owned properties in one year and adopt a plan to mitigate those hazards. Cities and counties also would be required to maintain compliance.

It should also, according to the report, encourage rehabilitiation of older buildings allowing less rigorous standards than the current building code imposes. The purpose would be to reduce the chances of personal injury, not to minimize property damage.

But, the officials were also warned that local governments shouldn't adopt far-reaching ordinances promising the public to eliminate "all hazards" or setting a specific target area for improvement. That ordinance could actually end up working against the city in the courtroom, experts suggested.

Looking even further ahead, the study also recommends that the legislature assure that the state would be immune from personal injury liability in the business of predicting — or failing to predict — earthquakes.

"A lot of people believe when they buy a house or get a building permit...the government guarantees that property's safety," Larson said.

He said Los Angeles officials told one developer that the property upon which he planned to build a $1 million apartment building was geologically unsafe but the developer wanted to build anyway.

The city, Larson explained, required the developer to sign a "hold-harmless" agreement supposedly freeing the city from liability for injury or damage due to geological conditions. When the building eventually was damaged in an quake, the developer claimed the agreement was "extorted" from him and he sued the city, Larson said.

"We have elected officials who believe that our policy was wrong," Larson said. "They think we should have said 'No' and not given him a permit." However, then the city would have undoubtedly been slapped with an inverse condemnation suit by the developer, claiming the city rendered his property useless and seeking its full market value, he said.

But, Dean Allen Smith of the University of Missouri Law School told the skeptical public officials the whole question of liability has been blown out of proportion.

A SPECIAL LIMITED OFFER FROM THE TIMES

The $3.25 monthly, home-delivery rate to The Times was established on June 1, 1974. Since that time, the costs of producing and delivering a newspaper have increased tremendously.

FOR EXAMPLE:

- ✓ during the past 4½ years, a ton of newsprint has risen from $213.50 to $320.00, an increase of 50%. On February 1, 1979, it will be increased another $25.00 which will place it 62% above the June 1, 1974, level.
- ✓ During 1979, wages and salaries will be approximately 50% above the 1974 level.

MANY OTHER EXPENSES HAVE INCREASED SIMILARLY!

All of the increased expenses have necessitated a subscription rate increase, which was announced on November 30, 1978. The monthly home delivery rate for The Times is now $3.75 per month, still less than 15 cents per issue.

During the month of December, 1978, however, we are extending a Special Annual Home-delivery Offer of $39.00,* a savings of $6.00 for the year.

In order to take advantage of this special offer, simply fill out this coupon and mail it, along with your check for $39.00, to: The Times Circulation Dept., P.O. Box 5400, San Mateo, CA. 94402.

Hurry, though! Offer expires December 31, 1978.

*subscription extension for vacation credit and refunds for the difference between the $39.00 paid and the used portion of the annual subscription at $3.75 per month, are part of this special annual subscription offer.

Members of the alumnae chapter of the business sorority, Alpha Iota, will celebrate the event of the holiday season with a pot luck dinner this Friday evening.

Mrs. Barbara Wolowic will entertain the women in her San Francisco home beginning at 7. Following the dinner a program is planned and the revelation of the 1978 secret sisters will be made.

Members planning to attend are urged to contact Mrs. Wolowic concerning the nature of their "dish."

Some people are so well prepared for the season that they are able to take a few days off for rest and recreation!

Members of the Pacifica Fifty Plus Club will snatch a few hours away from shopping and baking and cleaning to visit the new MGM Grand Hotel and Casino in Reno next week.

Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan has arranged for the junket which will take the members from Pacifica to Reno via bus for the first day and then on to Sparks for a second day of fun visiting the casinos in Reno's neighboring city.

According to Mrs. Calhan the bus is filled to capacity for this event, but anyone hoping to go is asked to call Mrs. Elizabeth Funderburg about possible cancellations.

Mrs. Doris Johnson, tour chairman for the members of the Daly City Chapter of AARP, reports that the next trip planned for the members of that group will be held in February.

Mrs. Johnson indicates that the plans call for a weekend trip to Lake Tahoe, with a side visit to Reno, during the first week of February.

Space on the bus is limited so members are urged to sign up as soon as possible to insure their reservations.

Frank Galo of Daly City and his bride-to-be Mary Ann Zimmer were the surprised guests at a wedding shower this past Friday. The couple attended the Balboa Alumni Board's Christmas party and learned, during the course of the evening, that the committee had arranged to incorporate the event with a shower for them!

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Sumrall hosted the party in their newly redecorated Victorian home.

Miss Zimmer and Galo plan to be married in February.

Tickets are still available for the dinner-dance being planned for New Year's Eve by the members of the Our Lady of Mercy parish in Westlake.

"Starlight Serenade," the name selected by the committee for the party, will begin at 8 p.m. on New Year's Eve with no-host cocktails. A sit down style dinner, featuring roast beef, will be served at 9 p.m. with dancing to the music of "Mateus" to begin at that time.

The committee working on the party is chaired by Mrs. James McKee and Ralph Barsi. Members of the Westlake Catholic Men and Westlake Catholic Women are arranging the event.

Tickets, costing $11.50 per person, are available from Mrs. Harry Kanelopoulos.

Members of Mary's Help Hospital Guild are recessed for the Christmas season following the very successful Boutique de Noel. When business as usual resumes next month there will be several new faces.

According to Mrs. Millie Dunow of the guild, several new members were elected during the November business meeting. Among the new names on the roster are those of Mrs. Frank Jimenez, Mrs. Karl Kroner, Mrs. Dorothy Martinovich, Mrs. Gerald Stubo and Mrs. David Wharton.

Nu Sigma chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held its first meeting of December at the home of Mrs. Larry Gotelli. The cultural that evening was on "Art." The annual Christmas Cookie Exchange took place that evening.

On Dec. 14 they will be giving a Christmas Party for St. Theresa's haven for Adult Mentally Retarded. Refreshments will be served and gifts will be distributed by Santa Claus.

They are also working on Lap Robes to be donated to St. Francis Pavilion Convalescent Home. A cash donation will be given to Operation Santa Claus.

On Dec. 23 a Christmas Party will be held by the members and their husbands at Nicks Restaurant Rockaway Beach.

THE DIET CORNER

By Elise Gendar

Cabin fever, a dread non-tropical malady.

Cause: Rain, fog and cold. Symptons: That closed in feeling. Onset: The desire to climb the walls of office or home. Cure: Activity.

You need your exercise while you're losing weight. To get it when the weatherman enters into the conspiracy to keep you sedentary and nibbling away out of frustration requires a scheme. Scheme your home or business into a playground.

Stuck on the phone for hours on end? Walk the hours away. Five steps one way and five steps back as you talk. It may not be climbing the Matterhorn, but it sure beats moving nothing but the lips.

Sit still at the desk or while supervising the homework? You can use the sitting to advantage by thrusting your back tight up against the back of the chair then tightening and releasing your muscles in the buttocks. Whenver you have to sit during the day, this sneaks in a little toning in a very lax area.

Have to pick up around the house? Lady, it's made for your purposs at this time of year. Bend, stretch, stoop, squat until those unused muscles holler. No way of house-cleaning in your office? Periodically throw your papers on the floor and do some bening, stooping, squatting to pick them up.

When yo're down in the basement watching the washer do its thing, jog around the area — 10 times. At work, jog on your inter-office errands. There's always a corridor or two you can use.

Keep your energy up for all of this by keeping your protein high. Try this for tonight's dinner menu.

CHEESEBURGER LOAF

1 pounds lean beef, ground
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
5 oz. cheddar or Swiss cheese, coarsely grated
1 teaspoon mustard
¼ teaspoon pepper, freshly ground
1 teaspoon barbecue seasoning

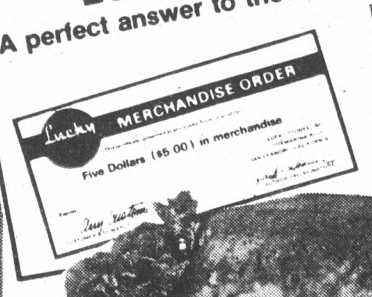

Mix all ingredients together in a large bowl. Shape into square loaf. Place on baking rack in shallow pan. Bake t 350-degree oven for 50 to 60 minutes. Cut into 6 equal portions.

Now for my favorite exercise of all. It's the Push-Away. Once dinner is over, place your hands firmly against the edge of the table and push away.

If hips are your trouble spots, I'd like to help by sending you a copy of The Diet Workshop's "Trouble Spot" exercises for hips. A self-addressed, stamped envelope to me at The Diet Workshop, 2533 Taraval St., San Francisco 94116 will bring you this set of exercises in return.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

Christmas time is cookie baking time. Somehow, we are going to have to fit baking cookies into and around our shopping, sewing, gift wrapping, card writing and pondering what to give dear Aunt Ethel.

This new recipe for chocolate frosted toffee squares tastes even better than it sounds. Besides being made with a generous helping of healthful wheat germ, it has something special to offer in the way of flavor and texture. Best of all, these cookies are quick and fun to make.

WHEAT GERM TOFFEE SQUARES

- ¾ cup butter, softened
- ½ cup granulated or brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¾ cup vacuum packed wheat germ, regular or sugar and honey
- 1½ cups flour
- ½ cup semisweet chocolate pieces
- ½ cup finely chopped walnuts or pecans

Beat the three-fourths cup butter and half-cup sugar, one teaspoon vanilla and half-teaspoon salt until creamy. Mix in the three-fourths cup wheat germ and one and one-half cups flour. Press into bottom of 8- or 9-inch square pan. Bake in 350-degree oven 20 to 25 minutes or until golden on edges. Remove from oven. Sprinkle with the half-cup semisweet chocolate pieces.

Return to oven and bake 5 minutes longer or until chocolate melts. Spread chocolate evenly over top. Sprinkle with the half-cup chopped walnuts. Cut into squares. Cool before removing from pan. Makes 36 squares.

NOTE: Use real chocolate, not chocolate flavored pieces. I found the real chocolate spreads more easily.

Your house will smell like sugar and spice and everything nice when you finish baking these delicious cookies.

SUGAR 'N' SPICE COOKIES

- 1 cup sugar
- ¾ cup shortening
- 1 egg
- ¼ cup molasses
- 2 cups sifted flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons soda
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon each cloves and ginger

Cream the one cup sugar and three-fourths cup shortening. Add the egg and fourth-cup molasses. Mix thoroughly.

Sift together the two cups flour, fourth-teaspoon salt, two teaspoons soda, one teaspoon cinnamon and fourth-teaspoon each cloves and ginger. Add to creamed mixture and mix well. Set in refrigerator to chill.

Roll in small balls about the size of a walnut and space on a greased cookie sheet. Bake in 350-degree oven for 10 minutes. Cool on rack.

Licking Off Poison

By D. R. BARNETT, DVM

QUESTION: What do you think about today's insecticide repellents for pets? They all caution humans: "harmful if swallowed or inhaled." I wonder about the possib' effect of such chemicals c animals. My cat licks her self all over after I srapy here. I use "Sprecto" — can this harm her? J.J.

ANSWER: As most owners in this area are aware by now, the fleas this year are horrible. Each year I notice that they are worse than the preceding year and this year is setting a record. I suppose it has something to do with the weather over the last several years but, whatever the cause, the animals are suffering! You should examine your pet closely at least every two or three days and if you find fleas or the pet is scratcing or licking itself, do something about the fleas. I favor a powder or spray applied frequently to the animal and its surroundings. Follow the directions on the container, of course, but be regular and consistent with the use of the insecticide. If your pet has skin lesions or inflammation from scratching, take it to your veterinarian for treatment. These skin infections can be very irritating, as anyone who has had poison oak will know. Although I am not familiar with "Sprecto," I have used several other flea sprays on cats without ill effects. Cats are much more sensitive to toxicities than dogs. However, if the spray can states that it is safe for use on cats you may use it with little worry. The amount of spray the cat takes internally by licking itself apparentlyis insufficient to cause problems.

QUESTION: We load up our hamster's cage with all kinds of soft wood shavings, and she throws them all over the table. She is very gentle with our two daughters, but eats rather wild in the cage. My neighbor seems to think she needs a mate — or at least another hamster. Do they get lonesome by themselves? I've heard that basically they are loners and have a tendency to fight when placed with another hamster. M.G.

A: You're right, although females that have been brought up together make suitable cage-mates. My observations have led me to believe that the single life for a hamster results in most happiness for the captive hamster as well as the owner. Be sure your hamster has a wheel for exercise. Try one of the clear plastic globes that enable a hamster to "roll" through the house.

Le Pacini

Just about everything that can be written and said about George Moscone has been written and said, but the late San Francisco mayor, a St. Ignatius and COP (when University of the Pacific was College of the Pacific) basketball whiz, was a great friend of sports, and there should be at least one reminder of the nearly forgotten role he played in keeping the Giants in San Francisco.

If Moscone, who walked into the Giants' crisis on his first day in office, never did anything else in his political life, I will be forever grateful for what he did for the Giants. Aside from Giants' owner Bob Lurie, Moscone was possibly more responsible than anybody else for keeping the Giants from moving to Toronto.

When I asked Lurie if Moscone was as helpful as he appeared to be, Lurie responded:

"Yes, very much so. Let me explain. I'd known Bob Short for 10-15 years, and had talked to him earlier about getting involved with the Giants. He said he'd have to have complete control, and I said, 'Bob, that's fine, but I don't was to go in on a deal where you have complete control and I have nothing. I'm not looking for that.' But on the day the day before we went to Judge Benson's court and he stayed that injunction to keep the Giants from moving, at least temporarily, Moscone called and asked me if I would talk to Short again, that Short had some other ideas.

"I spent almost two hours on the phone to Minneapolis with Short and we set some ground rules. He flew out the next day, and we spent another three hours and agreed on the partnership just before we went to court. After Short injured his hip when he slipped on some ice in Minneapolis and was hospitalized, I made about four trips there to have meetings with him.

"By then, he had some different thoughts on things, so I said, 'Fine, I can't live with the deal, you can't live with it, so let's part friends.'

"But Moscone was a tremendous help in forestalling things until I could get together with Bud Herseth.

Al Attles is still utilizing basically only a six- or seven-man squad, game in and game out, and that may be one of the reasons for the erratic play of the Warriors.

But don't blame Attles. He's still operating with a very inexperienced squad which is also guard-short. He can't yet play with what is essentially two equal teams, as he did when the Warriors won the championship.

NBA trivia:

What high school currently has the most alumni playing in the NBA?

DeWitt Clinton of the Bronx, which claims Nate Archibald (Boston), Tom Henderson (Washington), Steve Sheppard (Chicago) and Ricky Sobers (Indiana).

Sudden thought: It seems to me that baseball and basketball players know more about the rules of their games than football players know about their game.

How many times, for example, have you seen a kick-off return man get confused over whether or not he can run the ball out of the end zone or down it once he touches it?

Raider coach John Madden, the Daly City-Jefferson High boy, got a lot of publicity on his 100th win in the NFL, but it was barely mentioned, if at all, that he also has the highest winning percentage (.761) of any of the 13 NFL coaches who have won at least 100 games. Closest man to Madden is Don Shula of Miami, with .744.

As you football fans may know, passing statistics are figured differently in the pros than they are for the college boys.

The NCAA crowns its passing champs on the basis of average completions per game.

The NFL is much more complicated. They rate passers in four categories: completion percentage, average yards per attempt, percentage of touchdowns and percentage of interceptions.

That's the easiest part of it. After that, you need a calculator. A table is set up to convert each percentage into a figure that ranges from .000 to 2.375.

Another table converts the total of the four figures to a scale of 100 points.

If you're interested enough and have the patience, you can figure NFL-style passing ratings yourself, without the NFL booklet of charts.

You take the completion percentage plus four times the TD percentage, minus five times the average gain, plus 2.5, and then divide that figure by 5/6.

If the completion percentage is less than 30, use 30 in the computation. If it's greater than 77.5, use 77.5. If the TD percentage is greater than 11.9, use 11.9. If the interception percentage is greater than 9.5, use 9.5. If the average gain is less than 3.00, use 3.00. If it's greater than 12.5, use 12.5.

Now you know why football writers and announcers always refer to the NFL rating system of passers as "complicated," and never explained it to you.

Anyway, the point of all this is that the Sporting News recently ranked this year's college passers according to the NFL rather than the NCAA formula, and came up with some interesting comparisons.

For example, Steve Dils of Stanford, who was the NCAA passing champ, ranked only ninth nationally, while Michigan State QB Eddie Smith took the NFL-method title, he having ranked only fifth by the NCAA.

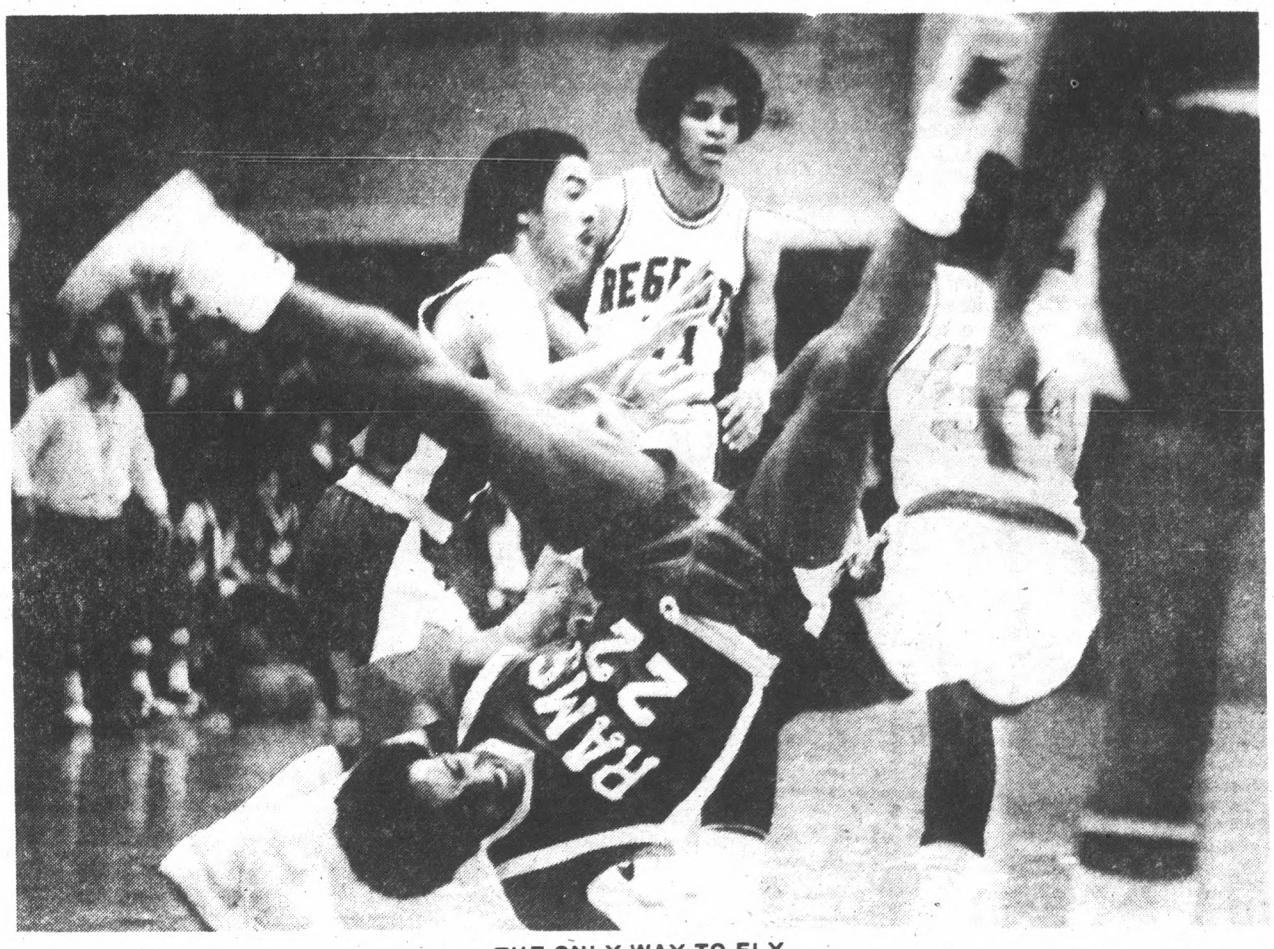

USC's southpaw thrower Paul McDo ald was ranked 49th by the NCAA, but would have been sixth in the NFL. Jack Thompson, the Throwing' Samoan out of Washington State, went from sixth as a collegian to 27th under NFL rules. Cal's promising sophomore, Rich Campbell, fell from ninth to 23rd, and San Jose State's Ed Luther from 10th to 43rd.

Penn State's near Heisman Trophy winner, Chuck Fusina, rose, under the NFL rating system, from 19th to 10th.

Some sudden nostalgic trivia: I've just discovered that my all-time pro football hero, Hugh McElhenny, still holds the collegiate record for highest average gain per rush, minimum of 20 carries, for a single game. In 1950 against rival Washington State, McElhenny carried the ball 20 times for 296 yards and an average of 14.8 yards. The old King continues to astound me.

LOCAL NOTES: I noted here at the beginning of the season that one of the few things the San Francisco State Gator football team seemed to have going for it was former Terra Nova Tiger tackle Rich Motylewski. That's the way it turned out. Rich led the team in tackles (105), tackle assists (15), fumble recoveries (three) and sacks (eight). He was named the team's most courageous player and made the All-Far Western Conference first team.

A Peak-and-Valleys Tournament

THE ONLY WAY TO FLY

Westmoor High's Derrick Johnson (22) takes a flying leap over the head of Serramonte's Joe Nobles (34) in first game of Serra High Basketball Invitational tournament Friday night. The other Westmoor player is Ken Baptista. Serramonte player in background is Mark Jules.

By JOHN MURPHY

"Anti-climatic" would be the best way to describe the finals of the sixth annual Serra Invitational Basketball Tournament held Saturday night at Serra.

For the record, Aragon High upended Westmoor 55-47 in the title game, Serramonte nipped Serra 64-62 for third place, Gunn topped Moreau 62-53 to win the consolation championship and Hillsdale edged Carlmont in the final seconds 65-63, to take home seventh place.

Saturday's games were, for the most part, a disappointment for those who had the pleasure of viewing Friday's spine-tingling contests.

In comparison to Friday, the finals were (a) not well-attended (b) lacking in emotion and (c) not very well-played.

The previous statement was not intended to take anything away from Aragon, the remainder of the teams in the tourney (which included many of the best in the County) or Serra High (which annually runs a smooth, high-class tournament).

But, admittedly, Friday's games were a hard act to follow.

"It seemed like neither team was ready to play," said Aragon Coach Pete Pontacq of his title showdown with Westmoor. "Maybe there weren't enough people here — I'm not sure what it was.

"Anyway, I feel that we're a better team leaving Serra than when we came in (the Dons are currently 5-0 in non-league). I still don't think that we've played our best yet. It's always peaks and valleys in preseason."

How true. This early-season tournament was certainly one of peaks and valleys. The highlight of the entire affair was probably Aragon's thrilling 58-57 overtime semi-final victory over Serra on Friday night (which was preceded by an exciting 69-67 Westmoor win over Serramonte).

Friday night's action must have taken its toll on all four teams, because Saturday night's play seemed to be unusually sloppy and uninspired.

Aragon, rated as the team to beat in the Mid-Peninsula League this year, didn't exactly come out smoking against Westmoor in the championship game. The Dons missed numerous easy shots in the first period and trailed 10-4 after one stanza.

The second and third periods were a different story, however. Neither team was in top form but Aragon, paced by the inside play of 6-3 Gary Williams and the outside gunnery of Guard Kenny Powell, led Westmoor 42-31 after three quarters.

The Rams, who were missing 6-5 senior stalwart Sheldon Scott (jammed finger), narrowed the margin to 46-42 late in the fourth quarter. But pressure free throws down the stretch by Williams and Ed Jefferson kept Westmoor at bay.

"We spend a lot of time in practice shooting free throws, and now it's starting to pay off," commented Pontacq. "This guy," he said with a glance towards pivot-man Williams, "was a 40 percent free throw shooter last year until we changed his shot — made him squat down — but he was 8-for-10 tonight. He hit the clutch ones, too."

Powell, who scored consistently well for the Dons throughout the tournament, was named the Most Valuable Player. His cool floor leadership down the stretch was a major factor.

"I think that the key to the whole tournament was Kenny Powell last night playing with four fouls and not fouling out. If we would have lost him it would have been Serra against Westmoor tonight," said Pontacq.

Powell, who went 16 minutes without a foul to stay in the game against Serra, was certainly deserving of the MVP award. But Williams, who was mysteriously left off the all-tournament team, could have easily been awarded the honor.

Williams played only part of Aragon's tourney opener against Carlmont (because of shin splints) and scored just six points, but had 18 points and 11 rebounds against Serra and added 20 points and 14 caroms versus Westmoor.

Another major contributor for the Dons was 6-5 junior frontliner Dave Anderson. Anderson surprised nearly everyone with 14 rebounds and four blocked shots against Serra and 11 points and eight rebounds against the Rams.

Still, Pontacq was not enthralled with his team's offensive play throughout the tourney.

"I kind of junked the offense that we ran last year," he said. "I may have to go back to it (Aragon ran Skyline College's man-to-man offense last season). It had some movement and we cut pretty hard. I haven't run it this year, but I think I'm gonna run it now so that we get a little motion.

Pontacq also mentioned that the Dons' fast break could have been a bit more prevalent. Aragon did not get the ball out on the break as fast as it wanted to. But the Aragon Mentor was pleased with 83 percent shooting from the charity stripe.

Derrick Johnson, the transfer from Wilson, led Westmoor with 13 points. Another guard, Tony Limutau, added 11 for the Rams.

The future looks bright for both Aragon and Westmoor. Aragon has four juniors in its starting lineup and appears to be the class of the Mid-Peninsula League. Westmoor, meanwhile, is the pre-season favorite in the North Peninsula League, and should return to form with the addition of the injured Scott (who should be back for this week's El Camino Tournament).

Serramonte and host Serra locked horns in a confrontation for third place and the Regents' fast-paced offense won out over the Padres' patience and discipline.

Serra, playing its usual patterned offense and Kamikaze defense, took control early and seemed to have the mercurial Regents frustrated with its deliberate style of play.

The Padres might have taken complete command early had it not been for the deadly shooting of forward Ricky Mixon, who saved Serramonte with his accurate long-range jumpers.

Serra continually got good shots inside against the Regents' man-to-man defense, but missed an alarming number of lay-ins.

The Pads weren't any better from the free throw line, either. They went a pathetic 10-for-26 on foul shots.

Sub junior forward Steve Schumacher tried to rally Serra late in the contest with some clutch pull-up jumpers. But Mixon disdained the opportunity to stall on the other end and tossed in a couple of key field goals in the final minutes to keep the Regents ahead.

Mixon, who had the hot hand in the first half, didn't get the ball as often in the final 16 minutes, but finished with 22 points. Greg Broussard added 13 for Serramonte.

Six-five senior center Rich McGlennon paced Serra with 17 points. Forward Jim Bruno, who fouled out in the second half, added 16 for the Pads.

Charlie Brown's 15-foot jumper with six seconds left beat Carlmont in the seventh-place game. Brown paced the Knights with 23 points and 10 rebounds. Forward Don Stremme added 14 points for Hillsdale and 6-8 sophomore center Nick Vanos chipped in 12.

Guard Bruce Nash led Carlmont's offensive attack with 26 points.

The all-tournament team consisted of Troy Williams (Westmoor), McGlennon (Serra), Derrick Johnson (Westmoor), Vaughn Manns (Gunn) and Powell (Aragon).

Tigers Win

Terra Nova High's girls' basketball team won its own Tiger Invitational Tournament Saturday with a 55-26 win over highly regarded Menlo-Atherton.

Terra Nova is becoming quite a force to be reckoned with.

The Tigers played defense like demons, individually and collectively. The full-court press they played throughout the tourney was largely responsible for their 52 steals; the Tigers themselves had only 22 turnovers.

Menlo-Atherton had been averaging 51.3 points per game before Saturday.

Since MA couldn't get the ball to double-teamed All-Tourney center Shelly Neufeld, its top scorer and one of its best passers, the Bear offense never could get untracked.

"We know that Shelly can kill you with her shooting from that high post spot," commented Jim Soden, Terra Nova's coach, "so we concentrated on making sure she wasn't in a position to get a pass."

"She (Neufeld) got a couple of our kids in foul trouble, but our bench played well for us on defense, especially Tracy De Francesco and Traci Neckritz."

Meanwhile, Terra Nova's Becky Myers notched a game-high 14 points while dishing out 11 assists.

The springy 5-8 guard averaged 19 points per game and received the tournament's Most Valuable Player Award.

Patty Juergens, Terra Nova's 5-11 rebounder and top shot-blocker, added 11 points while 6-1 center Terri Campbell had 10.

McAteer's Carol Buffington led the Jaguars to a 44-32 win over Lowell for third place while Crestmoor overpowered Mercy of Burlingame 52-31 for fifth place.

In the Westmoor-Capuchino game, the Mustangs served notice that they may have the best pair of guards in the MPL with senior playmaker Terry Forsell and junior shooter Roseanne Quinn, who had 17 and 20 points, respectively. Dawn Smith had 14 points to lead the Rams.

CSM Women Beat Skyline

Although you couldn't tell it by the score, Skyline's first-year women's basketball team played fairly well in its 82-49 preseason loss to highly-regarded College of San Mateo Saturday in San Bruno.

CSM, which made it to the state finals last year, was expected to blow away Skyline, which had just reinstated it's women's basketball program after a year's absence.

Chaplain Eyes Easing 'Locked-in' Feeling

Perspective

By ARVILLE FINACOM

It's a strange feeling to hear the click of a door behind you and know that you are powerless to reopen it. Although I had toured San Mateo County's Hillcrest Juvenile Home some years ago, I was not so aware of the locked-in feeling when entering with a group as I was when I went to see Rev. Paul L. Michaelson recently to talk to him about Hillcrest Chaplaincy and Ministries of San Mateo County.

Michaelson, a personable young Lutheran minister, is chaplain at Hillcrest and at Camp Glenwood, the San Mateo County work camp for juvenile males. As the only non-county employee, his is a quasi-staff job in which there are both advantages and disadvantages. One disadvantage is that often he doesn't have "the whole picture," which makes him feel "not part of the team."

But on the plus side, Michaelson feels that as a chaplain available to both staff and troubled youth, his is an objective view from which he is able to take a neutral stand. In "X" unit, where uncooperative young people are held in cells, Michaelson feels his neutrality helps.

It's a place, according to Michaelson, where the chaplain can say, "I don't have to be here, but I'm interested in you." In some cases, Michaelson continues, "a kid can be turned around in a sense of cooperation."

Sometimes Michaelson's success lies in explaining procedure to young offenders. Again, it is to his a dvantage that he's not an official part of the system. Michaelson also is able to follow up in the community. He can contact the families of offenders, work with them to help resolve crisis situations and also put them in touch with community resources.

Staff members at Hillcrest refer juveniles to Michaelson if they think the young person can profit from "talking to the chaplain." Little religion enters into these sessions. Often Michaelson merely listens while the youth lets off steam. As he says, "Not much real counseling goes on at Hillcrest. It's mostly listening on my part. The kids are resistant. The system doesn't scare them that much."

A change in state law prohibiting incarceration at Hillcrest of all but lawbreakers creates a confined population of juvenile offenders charged with auto theft, other theft, burglary and battery. There are also returnees, back for reassignment when less confining court placement has failed.

Every month some 200 are admitted, approxi-

Playing Ancient Games

By RICHARD C. MOON

For some reason, games with ancient themes are a big rage right now; perhaps it is due partly due to the popularity of the Egyptian exhibit of King Tutankhamun across the country, and maybe, too, because Backgammon has made such a comeback and people are looking for other games with roots in antiquity. Whatever the reasons, there are several games currently on the market that claim to date back thousands of years.

The Gamesman

One of the authentic old games is a pùzzle to me because it has not swept the nation in popularity. The game is "Kalah" and it comprises everything it takes to make a great and enduring game.

Kalah certainly has endured. As far as is known, Kalah is the only game which has been played continuously in widely-separated parts of the world. It was known on at least three continents as early as the Sumerian civilization.

The United States Smithsonian Institute has published a detailed study of Kalah, tracing its origin and history. The game has been called by several names — Mangala, Naranj, Chuncajon, Gabatta, Poo and Abangah, to name a few. One of the great mysteris about Kalah is the evidence that it was played in darkest Africa and on remote Pacific islands when these cultures had no means of contact.

A man named William Champion became fascinated with the game while attending Yale University around the turn of the century. After he was graduated, in 1905, he began tracing IKalah's migrations. He discovered a painted vase of Ajax and Achilles playing the game during the siege of Troy and maharajahs using rubies and star sapphires as counting tokens. He concluded that the game was known, in one form or another, in almost all parts of the world. Champion spent the rest of his life researching and promoting Kalah, but always was puzzled and disappointed by the failure of the game to really catch on in this country.

Kalah has outlived these many centuries because it has the two basic ingredients that make a game great; it is simple to learn, yet can be very complicated to play. The game is a "pit and pebble" game. Two players sit on opposite sides of the Kalah board which consists of two ranks of six pits with a larger pit at each end. Each player deposits three playing pieces (beans, stones or something similar) in each of the pits on his side of the board. The object is to accumulate as many pieces as possible in the larger pit — the Kalah — to each player's right. One accumulates pieces by "sowing and reaping."

As simple as Kalah appears, it can be more complicated than Chess or Go — and a good game always involves a challenge.

mately six boys to every girl. Since Hillcrest serves only as a holding facility until court judgments and assignments are made, lengths of stay average two to three weeks. At anyone time there are between 60 and 90 young people between 13 and 17 years of age housed at Hillcrest, many in desperate need of a foster home and/or an adult friend "on the outside."

Michaelson sees foster homes and adult friendship as critical factors in the turning of a young person away from a life of continued lawbreaking and it is in these two areas that he sees a real purpose for the Christian ecumenical Chaplaincy and Ministries program. He explains that the need for foster families to provide food, shelter and psychological support to troubled teens has been much greater since implementation of Proposition 13 forced closure of the county-operated crisis resolution center and all group homes.

Michaelson hopes HCM, funded by individual contributions, funds budgeted by Christian congregations in the county and donations from such groups as Gemco and the Atkinson Foundation, can act as sponsor among local churches of more community kinds of work, both preventive and follow-up. Michaelson envisions a network of individual church-coordinated foster homes and youth centers where young people can receive guidance, ideally before they choose crime as an option to express deep-seated problems in relationships.

Such increased community involvement is a primary goal for Michaelson, who began his half-time work at Hillcrest last January. Parenthetically, the other half of his work week is spent in Redwood City as a staff counselor for Lutheran Social Services of Northern California. In addition to his hours at Hillcrest, he spends Wednesdays each week at Camp Glenwood, counseling and eating lunch with the boys. Because of the longer length of stay at the ranch — from six months to a year —he feels he gets to know the resident boys much better and is able to initiate meaningful follow;up; but for this, there is an ever-increasing need for volunteer help.

Volunteers also can be of value within the Hillcrest facility. Clerical help is needed. So are people able to help parents of offenders get to and

Sr. Discount Plans Grow

Discounts and special services to seniors are offered by hundreds of local businesses through the Community Concern for Senior Citizens program in this county. Retailers who discount to seniors are listed in a Discount Directory, in which the percentage or amount of discount and special terms or limitations are also shown.

The new Daly City Discount Directory is available at the Social Services Center, 6794 Mission St., 992-2567. The new South San Francisco directory is in supply at the Senior Citizen Center, 230 Grand Ave., 589-1242, in addition to libraries in that city.

Pacifica/South Coastside updated directories are available at libraries and the Pacifica Senior Center, Crespi Drive and Barcelona; in Half Moon Bay these directories may be obtained at the Senior Center, 1410 S. Cabrillo Highway.

Seniors only need to ask for the discount before the sale is rung up and be prepared to show proof of age when requested. Any person 65 or over is eligible and no special card is needed. A drivers license (even expired), Medicare card or any age-verified identification is adequate proof of age. Some retailers offer discounts to persons not yet 65; These younger ages are noted with terms of discounts in the directories. Directories are free.

Community Concern for Senior Citizens is an all-volunteer program sponsored by branches of the American Association of University women in San Mateo County.

Merchants are contacted personally by AAUW and senior volunteers who explain the program and the agreement form. On this form the retailer specifies his own terms of discount that best fit his individual business. He may impose limitations to certain days of the week or hours of the day.

Businesses signing agreements are listed in the Discount Directory compiled by volunteers. There is no charge to businesses to be included in the directory, and senior centers and libraries distribute the directory free for Seniors. Printing costs have been covered through nominal grants, AAUW, and support from local commercial and civic organizations.

Millbrae/San Bruno volunteers are in the process of consolidating a directory for that area.

More information may be had by calling the county coordinator, Rachel Ralston, 323-3931, or Chairman Lora Corner, 368-4575.

BART Sunday Fares

BART is offering a special reduced fare for each of the remaining Sundays in December.

Sunday fares will range from 20 cents minimum in the downtown areas to 75 cents maximum for the longest one-way rides. All rides which normally would cost less than 75 cents will be offered at a 20 percent discount. All automatic fare vending machines in BART stations have had modifications to accommodate this special fare.

In addition to the special fares, all BART express buses on these Sundays only will be free when boarded at BART stations. BART express buses, which are operated by AC Transit for BART, serve outlying communities in the East Bay.

Alcohol Film at Hospital

Mary's Help Hospital will present a free film, "Guidelines" Dec. 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the hospital auditorium on the ground floor.

Don Frolli, program coordinator of the CAREUNIT, Mary's Help Hospital's alcoholism treatment unit, will be available for questions and discussion after the film.

CAREUNIT is a 21-day alcoholism treatment program which includes detoxification, psychotherapy and follow-up outpatient treatment.

For more information call Mary's Help Hospital's CAREUNIT at 992-1700.

Mary's Help, sponsored and operated by the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul, is at 1900 Sullivan Ave., Daly City.

Crab Pots Turn Out Morsels of the Deep

The crab pots at VINCE'S SEAFOOD DEPOT, San Mateo, are busy every minute turning out luscious morsels of the deep for take-home customers and for diners at the adjacent VINCE'S Seafood and Italian restaurant. The choice is yours: Relax and enjoy a great meal at Vince's, where Chef Nick Mantzoros (he's an 18-year veteran here) and his culinary constituents delight diners with menu variety, or pick up orders of fresh crustacean, etc., at the depot for the home table ... GONG'S, South San Francisco, is one of the few Chinese restaurants in the Bay Area offering 10 selections of Chow Yuk. Owner JOHN CHIANG offers the traditional Pork Chow Yuk, as well as beef, chicken, shrimp and even water chestnut ... Wednesday night is "Family Night" at TILLIE'S 'LIL' FRANKFURT in Moss Beach. A special family dinner is featured for only $4.29, and it's an all-you-can-eat affair, which includes dessert and wine ... The Upstairs Room at BEARDSLEY'S, downtown Burlingame, will be the setting again this year for their New Year's Eve bash. Dinner, dancing, and party favors are included in the one-price package. Early reservations is Bright Lights' suggestion.

Jackpot Breakfast Appetite Winner

What time is fun-time at BARNEY'S CASINO and the SOUTH TAHOE NUGGET? It starts when you get there, and continues every minute you enjoy yourself at these South Lake Tahoe clubs. The Super Jackpot Special Breakfast of two large pancakes, link sausage, whipped butter and syrup for only 99 cents at Barney's is a real winner (served from 11 p.m. to 11 a.m. daily). The $3.95 lunch and dinner buffet at the South Tahoe Nugget is an all-you-can-eat attraction ... MAC DAVIS, who wins audiences with his mellow country-rock songs, continues in the South Shore Room of HARRAH'S TAHOE through Dec. 21. Appearing with the prolific songwriter is Comedian TOM DREESEN, with Ray Bunch directing the BRIAN FARNON ORCHESTRA ... The show theme of Producer GARR NELSON'S musical revue "Bordello," which is appearing nightly, Tuesdays through Sundays, in the Silver Dollar Showroom of HAROLDS CLUB for an indefinite engagement, is based on the type of entertainment offered customers of high-class brothels in the 19th century. "The show is strictly fun," says Garr, "and is in no way a graphic or dirty production."

TUNING UP

The San Francisco Airport Hilton is preparing one of the biggest celebrations in town with their special New Year's Eve Package, which includes a complete filet mignon dinner and a full bottle of champagne, plus hats, noise makers and favors. Fantasy, a popular seven-member group, is part of the fantastic entertainment line-up from 8 p.m. to 1:30 a.m.

Trip To London Disco Grand Prize

Excitement is building to a fever pitch as the final weeks approach in MURRAY LEHR'S big Disco Dance Contest at LEHR'S CABARET DISCO in San Francisco. All weekly winners will compete in the final dance-off on Dec. 19 for the grand prize trip to London for two ... It's not too early to be making holiday reservations at NICK'S in Pacifica at Rockaway Beach. Particularly for New Year's Eve, when the new year will be ushered in with festive dining, and dancing to the music of the JIMMY PAYER group. There's also THE MOONRAKER for continental cuisine, and CAPTAIN CHARLES for gourmet seafood during the holiday season ... The KEN FISHLER TRIO, featuring Jamie Davis on vocals, entertains for dancing Tuesdays through Saturdays at SERRAMONTE JOE'S, Daly City ... MIKE GUZMAN, who entertains on the concert grand at JIM SNIADECKI'S SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S restaurant in Redwood City, was the piano accompanist for an eight-minute dance class sequence in the movie "Making of a Mistress," which recently appeared on Channel 7 ... Since opening the BAyHILL LOUNGE in December, 1974, MEL CICERO and HARRY CURUSIS have watched business at their San Bruno bistro steadily grow. The SIR FRANCIS DRAKE HOTEL will offer New Year's Eve revelers a choice of activities to usher in 1979.

Tequila Sunrise Is Zesty Mexican Drink

LA PINATA in Burlingame invites you to choose from a variety of moderately-priced offerings such as Avocado Tostadas, Tacos, Burritos, Crab Enchiladas, Tamales, and Chile Relleno. For added zest, try their popular Margarita or Tequila Sunrise. Guitar entertainment while dining, Thursdays through Sundays ... Dinner guests at PHIL LEHR'S Pay-By-Ounce Steakery, on the lower level of the San Francisco Hilton Tower, were quick to recognize former San Francisco F.B.I. Chief Charles Bates and his wife, Arlene. Bates is now director of investigations for the Burns Security Services ... ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB, in the heart of San Francisco's Geary Street "Theater Row," is a festive place for pretheater dining for folks planning to see "A Christmas Carol" at the Geary Theater across the street. The sumptuous prime rib dinner will put you in the proper mood for a superb evening at the theater ... It isn't difficult to understand why ROMANO'S at Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, is so popular for its Italian and seafood specialties, as well as pizza variety, or where Owner ENRICO ROMANO gets his restaurant know-how, when you know who the "real boss" really is. Signore ENRICHETTA ROMANO, Enrico's lovely mother, is the expert who makes sure everything goes right in the kitchen.

Merle Haggard, the country poet who sings with compassion of harder times and unluckier days, opens a one-week engagement Dec. 14 in the Headliner Room of Harrah's Reno.

N.Y. Steak Dinner December Special

A seven-ounce New york Steak Dinner is served complete for only $4.25 during December at YOLANDA'S, located in the bustling Produce Center, South San Francisco. Low prices, high quality have long been a trademark here ... The KING'S TABLE BUFFET in Redwood City is a best bet for folks whose wallets have been flattened by Christmas shopping. Owner NORM LARSON puts out a truly impressive spread of salads and hot entrees, and everything is top-flight. $2.45 for lunch, $3.65 for dinner and $2.95 for Sunday Champagne Brunch, with youngsters dining for much less ... The "Grosvenor Experience" will be felt on New Year's Eve at the new GROSVENOR AIRPORT INN, South San Francisco. New York Steak, Prime Rib or Stuffed Trout will be the entree choice for dinner, plus a quart of liquor and proper mixes. The $89.95 price also includes a split of champagne (per person) at midnight, deluxe overnight accommodations, and a Ramos Fizz brunch on New Year's Day in the new Brass Elephant restaurant ... If time is of the essence during lunchtime these busy holiday days, just call L'AUBERGE, an award-winning French restaurant in Redwood City. The staff here realizes patrons are sometimes in a hurry, and they like to accommodate.

Gift Certificates Will Gladden Hearts

Holiday suggestion: Give your family and friends a taste of Japan for Christmas. BENIHANA OF TOKYO (Burlingame and San Francisco) has Benihana Gift Certificates of $10 and $25, which will gladden the hearts of all who receive them. Besides a choice of fillets, sirloins, chicken, fresh shrimp, lobster or scallops, diners get to watch their chef put on a great culinary show of slicing, dicing, sizzling and seasoning at the famed hibachi tables ... LA GRENOUILLE, a new French restaurant located on Bayshore in Burlingame, is developing into quite a luncheon spot. You'll be pleased with the mellow atmosphere, appealing menu, and the adjacent cocktail lounge (Les Jon) ... KING'S Chinese restaurant in San Mateo has the perfect answer for families on a dine-out budget. Three different family dinners (from $2.75 to $4 per person) include soup, barbecued pork fried rice, tea, and cookies ... Although many reservations have already been accepted for New year's at BERTOLUCCI'S, LARRY BERTOLUCCI says that dinner parties of any size can still be accommodated. Three dining rooms will be in full swing. Guests will also be treated to musical entertainment by an accordion player.

Board Backs Brisbane Marina Plan

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors Tuesday formally supported the planned construction of a 600-boat marina in the City of Brisbane.

Edward Bacciocco, chairman of the board, will send a letter of support to the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

A BCDC permit is necessary for the city to obtain a $7 million loan to pay for the marina from the Department of Navigation and Ocean Development.

The marina is being planned at the easterly end of Sierra Point on 20 acres of a 100-acre sanitary landfill.

According to Brisbane Mayor Jeannine Hodge, the marina project would provide needed berths for recreational boating; access to Sierra Point and Brisbane's three-mile shoreline; and encouragement of private development at Sierra Point, including commercial and retail facilities.

"The development of the marina and the subsequent development of the rest of Sierra Point will transform an unwanted, unattractive, inaccessible landfill to an outstanding public and private asset," said the mayor.

The BCDC is to consider the permit application on Dec. 7 at 1:30 p.m. at 1111 Jackson St., Oakland.

FOR NEW YEAR

Only Parents Should Do the Spanking

By ROBERT WALLACE, Ed.D.

DR. WALLACE: Our folks say they made my little sister Ann and me change to Christian high school because we needed discipline.

Today one of Ann's teachers made her stay after classes so I waited in the hallway. I couldn't help hearing that Ann was being spanked and I got "madder than a hornet." When Ann came out crying I went in and told the teacher what I thought about her "discipline." The next thing I know I was over her lap with my skirt flipped up, getting the spanking of my life.

Ann's and my rear-ends are still red and sore and it hurts just to move. We want to go back to our old school but our folks think the spankings were good for us. What do you think? — Janice, Sacramento

JANICE: When it comes to school discipline many people have many different thoughts. I realize some parents won't like my answer, but I personally feel teachers and administrators should not spank, paddle or inflict physical pain on students.

That responsibility belongs only to the parents.

Books for Kids to 'Bump Up Against'

By MICHELLE CARTER

"I want children to have a chance to experience life as a learner — and to have a little fun, too."

The speaker is Marilyn Burns who refers to herself as a "retired" teacher, but she would be hard pressed to convince anyone that she's retired from anything — let alone teaching.

She has cut down the classroom time that she actually spends with children, but her contact with children has just been funneled through a new format. Marilyn is one of four writers for the Brown Paper School Book series for children put out by Little, Brown and Co. Now she talks to children about nutrition, mathematics, thinking or whatever through the printed page, "but people tell me it comes out sounding just like me."

The latest edition from the Brown Paper Series (the paper really is brown and fuzzy so that it looks like it's recycled, even if it isn't) is "Good for Me!: All About Food in 32 Bites" which is packed with information directed at kids (roughly ages 9 to 12) that a lot of adults, especially parents, ought to know as well.

For instance, did you know what terrible stuff cola drinks are? "You may think it tastes good, but it has no nutritional value whatsoever; it causes tooth decay, and the caffeine in it is a drug that affects your central nervous system. Caffeine is the same drug that's in coffee, and most adults agree that coffee isn't a healthy drink for kids. (It probably isn't good for adults either!)"

Marilyn Burns

And if you still don't believe her, try this. Drop a chicken bone in a glass of carbonated soda pop and leave it there for a week. Then "see what happens to the bone. Then think of your teeth. If you can get a tooth, try that instead of a bone. That will give you an eyeful."

If you're not exactly sure how sugar does its terrible deed to teeth, Marilyn's ready with the answer as well as this little bit of historical data: "Queen Elizabeth ruled England in the late 1500s. She ate enough sugar to rot her teeth to black stumps. Imagine that smile!"

Researching the books is a big part of Marilyn's fun. She keeps turning up things like a sure cure for hiccups — "put your fingers in your ears and drink a glass of water without taking a breath" -- with no place to put them.

Being a former mathematics teacher who still gives teacher in-service training on the subject, the math book ("The I Hate Mathematics Book!") was the most fun for her to do. It also gave her a forum for "my pitch towards girls as mathematicians."

"The Book of Think (Or How to Solve a Problem Twice Your Size)" was another favorite. "I want to get kids to stretch their thinking as much as possible. We have all our senses to use — we need to take off our blinders and think.

"Today so much is dictated to teachers, it makes me sad. They're told exactly what to do so they teach children exactly what to do. Children end up learning facts rather than how to learn."

So, in her book, she encourages children to see things more than just one way: "It's easy to look at something. You see what you see. And that's the end of that. But watch out. That's you stopping you from exploring other possibilities. Getting in your own way again. A mirror reverses your image from left to right. Have you ever wondered why it doesn't reverse it top to bottom also? Have you ever wondered why you never wondered about that?"

A message direct from "Good for Me! All About Food in 32 Bites."

If you're wondering why anyone needs to be taught how to think consider this: "This book is about what to do when you are puzzled or perplexed or stumped or can't get there from here. It is about using your noggin. It is about being smart even when you feel dumb. This book is about how to think even when you know you are fresh out of ideas.

"(P.S.: If you are a person who never has a problem, then don't read this book.)"

The Brown Paper Series (each book is $7.95 hardcover: $4.95 softcover) grew out of a production of Yolla Bolly Press of Covelo. Jim and Carolyn Robertson launched the series and brought Marilyn into the tight little group that writes and illustrates the books. Most of them live in Marin County (where Marilyn makes her home) and they've become good friends as well professional associates. Social gatherings often turn brain-storming sessions for writers and illustrators alike.

Martha Weston did the illustrations for most of Marilyn's books, but Sandy Clifford, a San Mateo artist and sometimes rock musician, worked with Marilyn on "Good for Me!" Because the art and the copy are so closely integrated in the Brown Paper books, each project is a cooperative one between the writer and illustrator.

Both are committed to creating books that "children can bump up against — not just a collection of facts. They should be part of every school curriculum, but they aren't.

"I try to give information as value-free as possible, but I know my biases show. I just want to convince kids that their life is their own decision-making process. They have to make choices."

Judge Denies Move to Dismiss Tarver Shoplifting Case

A judge Friday denied community college Trustee Robert A. Tarver's newest bid to have a shoplifting charge dismissed. A trial date of January 25 was set.

Tarver, an attorney and a member of the San Mateo Community College District Board of Trustees for 25 years, was charged with trying to steal a steak from a Safeway Store in Foster City last February.

His attorney, Clarence Knight of Millbrae, has maintained that Tarver was intoxicated because of depression involving an illness to his wife. He said that Tarver did not deliberately try to leave the store without paying.

Knight today asked Municipal Court Judge V. Gene McDonald to dismiss the charge "in the interest of justice."

Knight said that a Safeway official, responding to an inquiry by a Tarver friend to consider asking for a dismissal, requested and received from Tarver medical reports on Tarver and his wife, as well as a hold-harmless statement.

McDonald ruled that he could not dismiss the case on the basis that Safeway had considered a civil compromise.

Knight last summer tried unsuccessfully to get the case dismissed on the grounds that the district attorney's office failed to preserve the steak as evidence.

Assistant Attorney General Charles Kirk said following Friday's court appearance that his office has no intention of dismissing charges.

Kirk, in arguing against the new dismissal motion brought by Knight, told Judge McDonald, "All the people are expected to obey the law, including Mr. Tarver. The law applies equally and we intend to see that it does."

The attorney general's office assumed the case after McDonald ruled in October that the district attorney's office was in conflict of interest.

McDonald ruled that the district attorney could not serve as a criminal prosecutor against Tarver while defending him civilly in his capacity as a college trustee.

Rather than appeal the case, Assistant District Attorney William Larsen asked the attorney general's office to prosecute.

Salary Fund Transfer Under Fire

Money transfers made in order to pay teachers in the Jefferson Union High School District a 7-1/2 percent raise came under fire Tuesday night at the board of trustees meeting.

Superintendent Floyd Gonella produced a letter from Jacque Ross, associate superintendent for financial services of the California Department of Education, which criticized the transfer of funds from a bond account to a special reserve fund as "unprecedented."

In his letter, Ross questioned whether the district had violated sections of the state Education Code when it transferred the money.

A certified public accountant who audited the district, Lee Frank Willis of San Rafael, alerted the state Department of Education about the fund transfer in his audit report and suggested that it might be deemed improper.

Defending the district's action, Gonella pointed out that the district's legal counsel had recommended the transfer of monies.

"We have two agencies in conflict. The county office gave us clearance for the action and now the state is questioning it," Gonella said.

from the rather remote facility in the hills behind San Mateo. Sponsors are needed for court ordered "work programs."

Currently, two volunteers spend two afternoons a week working with the young people on arts and crafts projects. They would welcome help to expand the program.

As a Christian minister, perhaps Michaelson's most significant service at Hillcrest is conducting its weekly Sunday morning worship. Because he feels strongly that there needs to be a change from "one person chaplaincy" to "ministry by the community," Michaelson has been instrumental in getting varfious church-oriented individuals and groups to participate with him in leading worship, actually "45 minutes of music and conversation." According to Michaelson, it's a positive experience for all participants which sometimes leads to significant later involvement.

In Michaelson's view, volunteers are a symbolic response. He feels that way in which the community involves itself does affect the total system and a community in which volunteers are willing to offer short-term housing to troubled youth and become their adult friends at times when blood kin are unable or unwilling to cope, will be one from which fewer and fewer juveniles emerge to make Hillcrest a way stop on their road to adulthood.

Although "people presence" can go a long way to solve problems, money also is needed. The staff at Hillcrest has identified one special need for funds this year: magazine subscriptions. Funds also can be used to purchase arts and crafts supplies. Small gifts such as plates of homemade cookeis, inexpensive combs, brushs and other grooming aids, not only make Hillcrest less of an institution for its young residents, but also demonstrate clearly that there are people "out there" who do really care.

For more information call Michaelson at 344-7694, the San Mateo office of HCM, or at 367-1020, his LSS number. Address letters and contributions to Hillcrest Chaplaincy and Ministries, P.O. Box 589, San Mateo 94401.

Massage Studio Wins OK

A health studio offering massages will be allowed in Sharp Park, the Pacifica City Council decided Monday night.

The Planning Commission already had approved the project, but several Sharp Park residents appealed that decision to the council.

They alleged the health studio could be a front for a massage parlor and charged that prostitutes and other undersirables could be attracted to the neighborhood.

They said it could lead to the creation of Pacifica's own "red light district."

However, the council said it believed the studio would be an honest business and that if there were anything improper about it, the police would close it.

Pacifica resident Harjendar Chima has explained that the Pacifica Health Studio would be a mini-gymnasium.

It will be at Francisco Boulevard and Clarendon Avenue.

Councilwoman Ellie McGuire noted that the Planning Commission, in approving the project, "made the only decision it could make."

John Lewis, a planning commissioner who attended Monday session, said the commission reviewed the situation thoroughly before granting approval.

"It's an emotional issue," he said. "The massage bit is a buzz word to my mind."

Councilman Fred Howard said he had "no problem" with giving approval for the health studio, indicating he believes massages will be offered as a part of a health program.

Chima was questioned in depth about his experience and reminded that only licensed masseurs and masseuses can give massages.

A Pacifica ordinance requires that only graduates of a "recognized school" can administer massages.

The ordinance also says the chief of police can issue a permit for the studio only after a background check of the applicant.

Chima responded to the questions about his background by saying he did not have a license to give massages, but would hire others with licenses.

He also said other services will include a sauna and exercise equipment.

DISTRIBUTORSHIP
FOR SOFT DRINKS
ALL OF AMERICA'S
TOP SELLING BRANDS
Are the products you'll distribute if you become a part of our distributing system. Statewide areas are now open to new distributors. This is a business that can be a full time or part-time enterprise. These products are sold from beautiful, coin-operated vending equipment. Our company places the equipment and products in all types of locations, then you take over and restock the products twice a week and collect the money from the machines. Any necessary training is provided by us, you do not need previous experience. The profit potential in this business is high and is a steady income producer year in and year out. Nearly everyone enjoys cold drinks, don't you? The cash investment to get started is fully secured, very reasonable as indicated below, and if you expand the business, once you get started we will approve you for automatic company financing.
